INTERESTING FROM WASHINGTON.

The Proposed Treaty with Mexico—Probable Transfer of the Negotiations to Washington—The British Emissary to the Island of San Juan—Miscellaneous News.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Friday, Sept. 23.

The private secretary of Señor Lerdo left New-York on Tuesday last, as bearer of dispatches from Señor Mata to his Government, via New-Orleans. This messenger expects to reach New-Orleans in time for the steamer of the 27th inst., arrive in Vera Cruz by the 3d of October, leave again on the British steamer of the 5th for Havana, and reach this city by the middle of October.

Mr. McLane anticipates leaving for Vera Cruz on the 3d of October, unless negotiations shall be transferred to Washington, as urged by Señors Mata and Lerdo upon President Juarez, in their late dispatch to the Government.

In the meantime, I have reason to believe that the treaty will be the subject of discussion between the parties here—not with a view to conclude a negotiation, there being no authority for that as yet, but with the hope that some plan may be devised by which both parties may be satisfied, without doing violence to the rights of either, and the treaty be signed and delivered in time to receive proper notice in President Buchanan's Annual Message to Congress. Both Governments feel confident that a favorable conclusion of the negotiation will be reached.

I ascertain it to be a fact that the British Government has ordered a distinguished military commander to San Juan Island, with instructions similar to those furnished Gen. Scott by our own Government. Both officers go out to preserve peace, and, as their reputations are made, they can afford to prevent a collision.

Mr. Jenner, a new attaché of the British Legation here, is expected to arrive in the next steamer.

Secretary Floyd has improved in health since his sojourn at Old Point Comfort.

Gen. Jesup, Ordnance-Master-General of the United States Army, is lying very ill in New-York. His daughter was telegraphed for to-day.

It is rumored that Major Cross has been acquitted by Court-Martial, but as the papers of the case have been transmitted to Secretary Floyd for consideration, the rumor is a mere surmise.

Baron Stoeckl, the Russian Minister, now absent in New-York, has lately had a diplomatic "set-to" with Secretary Cass, relative to the traders in Russian America and their objectionable monopolies.

A storeship will sail from Boston for Spezzia about the 5th of October. Q.

[FROM THE REPORTER FOR THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

WASHINGTON, Friday, Sept. 23.

Perry McD. Collins, Esq., Consular Agent at Amoor River, Asiatic Russia, has arrived in this city, and expects to sail in the course of a few days on his return thither, by the way of St. Petersburgh.

It appears from his statements that American commerce at the Amoor is steadily increasing, several ships having sailed from the United States to participate this year in its rich trade. They have taken out assorted cargoes of merchandise, including cotton goods, wines, liquors, ships' stores and chandlery, all kinds of hardware, machinery, steam engines, &c. There are now on the waters of the Amoor five steamers built in this country. A Russian officer, Capt. Davaudeff, at present in New-York, is superintending the construction of steam engines and machinery, to be placed in gun-boats to be constructed on the Amoor, which is navigable for steamboats at least twenty-five hundred miles. The climate is similar to Northwest Canada, and the agricultural productions about the same. The principal value of the country, as yet developed, is for its furs and minerals, but when the steam navigation shall be fully established, the trade will be immeasurably increased in other productions, and Siberia and Tartary will add their treasures to those of the Amoor country. From Moscow to the head of the Amoor, a distance of 4,000 miles, are upwards of five hundred cities, towns and villages of industrious inhabitants. The Amoor Company this year sent to the Amoor River three or four vessels with full cargoes, together with iron steamers, to initiate their project, namely, to unite the mouth of the Amoor with Siberia by a regular line of steam packets. The present ukase of the Emperor of Russia, permitting Siberian exiles to emigrate to the Amoor, is with a view of settling the shores of that river, and developing the resources of the country. The construction of railroads is contemplated, and also lines of telegraph connecting with Moscow and other distant points.

All these movements of the Russian Government are regarded with great interest, as they cannot fail to open to American commerce a large and valuable market to many of our manufactures. Considering our diversified interests, including those of whaling in the North Pacific, and contiguous to Siberia and the Amoor, the opinion prevails that we should have a Consul-General, instead of a Consular Officer of comparatively an insignificant grade, with an insufficient salary.

The receipts of the Treasury last week amounted to $685,000; the drafts issued, to $1,158,000. The amount subject to draft is $4,405,000.

A dispatch from Old Point Comfort states that the health of the Secretary of War is improving.

EFFECTS OF THE STORMS.

Great Freshets in Pennsylvania—More Disasters on the Coast—Tornado in South Carolina.

Brief dispatches appeared in yesterday's TIMES, giving accounts of freshets in the Lehigh and Delaware rivers, in Pennsylvania. This morning we have additional telegraphic intelligence, to the effect that the rise in the Lehigh has been so considerable as to almost entirely submerge the village of Mauch Chunk. The damage done in various localities must be very considerable.

MAUCH CHUNK, Friday, Sept. 23.

The heavy rains which have been falling in this vicinity during the whole week have raised the Lehigh River fully eight feet above its ordinary mark. Our streets are overflowed, the water being from one to three feet in depth, and all our cellars are flooded. Citizens are moving about in boats, saving what property they can. It is impossible now to estimate the damage, but it must prove to be immense.

EASTON, Friday, Sept. 23.

The Lehigh and Delaware rivers are both rising rapidly. A serious break in the Delaware Canal at Yardleyville is reported. It is said that forty feet of the embankment is washed away.

EASTON, Friday, Sept. 23, P. M.

The damage to the East Pennsylvania and Lehigh Valley Railroads has been repaired, and trains are running regularly.

READING, Friday, Sept. 23.

The flood is subsiding in Eastern Pennsylvania, and the Reading Railroad trains are now running regularly on time. All the canals are overflooded, and the boats are not able to run; several bridges are also gone.

THE RISE IN THE OHIO.

PARKERSBURG, Va., Thursday, Sept. 22.

The Ohio River at this point, two hundred miles below Pittsburgh, is twelve feet deep in the channel and rising fast. There has been steady rain for the past twenty-four hours.

The schooner Harrison Jones, Capt. Gannon, from Florida, with a cargo of red cedar, is also ashore near the same place. Both vessels are bound to New-York. All hands saved.

THE LATE GALE AT THE SOUTH.

FEARFUL TORNADO IN SOUTH CAROLINA—GREAT DAMAGE TO PROPERTY.

A correspondent of the Sumpter Watchman, writing from Mechanicsville, Sept. 17, gives the following account of a tornado which had visited that locality:

"It is our sad duty to chronicle the occurrence, on yesterday, of the severest tornado that has ever swept through this region of our country. About 1 o'clock, P. M., a black cloud, lying in a westerly direction, seemed by some inherent power to accumulate the rage of the elements and vented itself in the form of a whirlwind. Its damages commenced somewhere upon the plantation of the late Col. John A. Colclough, and sweeping along in a direction from South to North, struck with its greatest fury upon the settlement of our esteemed friend and valued fellow-citizen, Col. James E. Rembert, whose well-improved and beautiful premises are literally demolished. The scene this morning beggars all description. I could not, were I to attempt it, do justice to the real state of facts. Suffice it to say, there is not a single building in the yard or barn-yard left intact. The dwelling, which is a handsome and costly structure, is unroofed, the sash all broken out, the walls thrown out of plumb and otherwise seriously injured. The out-buildings, gin-house, screw, barns, stables, and carriage-house are all laid waste and their contents scattered broadcast over the premises. It is indeed a mournful sight to behold the wreck. The damage at this early day cannot be properly estimated, but it must be very heavy.

The labor of a life-time destroyed in a day! What a commentary upon the vanity of our possessions! I must not forget to mention that two negroes are injured, (one of them the doctor thinks seriously,) and a considerable quantity of stock of various kinds, together with all the poultry on the place, are killed. The neighbors, of course, sympathize deeply with our friends in this great calamity, and are doing all that is in their power to alleviate the distress of the family.

P. S.—Since writing the above, news has reached us that the storm extended as far as Bishopville, and several persons sustained heavy losses, though we are not informed as to what extent."

The annexed account is from a correspondent of the Columbia South Carolinian:

"On Friday last, we had in this section of country quite a severe hurricane. At Gopher Hill, it tore up numberless trees, demolished several carriages, and blew a pine on a kitchen in which there were thirteen little negroes, who saved their lives by seeking refuge under a bed. I understand on some of the plantations, near Bennettsville, over in Marlboro, there is not a single house standing, the wind blowing down every thing, and killing several persons, both white and black. I understand it carried a negro woman two or three hundred yards out into the field, killing her dead. In the vicinity of Cheraw, it blew down some few trees, otherwise did little harm."

THE STORM IN VIRGINIA.

The Alexandria Gazette thus sums up some of the effects of the Equinoctial in Virginia:

"Trees, fences, signs, and chimneys, were blown down. A portion of the blacksmith shop at the Virginia Locomotive and Car Works was blown over, and we have heard of other damage to property in this city and neighborhood. The cars on the Orange and Alexandria Railroad were delayed, waiting for the Central and Manassas Gap trains at Gordonsville and Manassas Junction, but these failing to connect, the Orange train came on through, arriving here about 2½ o'clock. The Aquia Creek steamer came up an hour later than usual in consequence of the storm, and the steamboats between this place and Washington were unable to run during the greater portion of the day. The ship Silver Star, lying at Fowle & Co's wharf, parted her moorings, but was secured before she drifted off. At 7 o'clock, on Saturday evening, the Manassas train reached the dépôt there, having been detained at Kendrick's Cut, above Strasburgh, in which the water was five feet deep. The country along the line is reported to have been literally flooded."

ON THE GULF COAST.

In Mobile and vicinity, the storm was quite severe. The subjoined account is from the Mobile Register of the 17th:

"From all the accounts received, the storm of Thursday night was more disastrous elsewhere than here in the city. In several of the stores on Commerce and Front-streets, above St. Francis, the water covered the floors, in some instances six or seven inches, to the injury of sugar, flour, bagging, &c., which occupied the lower floor. Many of the merchants were actually engaged in removing their goods to the second stories, employing help at the rate, per hand, of $2 an hour. Other than this the damage was slight, being confined principally to the destruction of awnings, signs and window-glass, and the flooring of a number of large and beautiful shade trees.

At Point Clear nearly all the bath-houses and wharves were swept away, and the sojourners were much alarmed.

Higher up, on the Eastern shore, every wharf and bath-house, except Hudson's and Stark's, is gone.

In the neighborhood of Short's wharf, two oyster boats capsized, one called the Sea Bird, and two persons, names unknown, were drowned. It was only by excellent management that the steamer Junior was saved thumping to pieces on the beach, whither she had been blown, dragging her anchor nearly a quarter of a mile.

The steamer Flirt, which left for up the river about 5½ o'clock on Thursday evening, returned before daylight yesterday morning, with the loss of her chimneys."

The Massachusetts House of Representatives, by a vote of 142 to 31, have expunged the word "white" in the militia laws, which has hitherto stood a hindrance to the organization of colored military companies. This matter was debated at great length in the Constitutional Convention in 1853. There seemed to have been a concurrence of opinion in that body that there was no constitutional barrier in the way of colored men becoming members of the Massachusetts military companies; but it was contended that if the Massachusetts militia was itself a part of the militia of the United States, colored men could not be enrolled in it. The Senate have not yet voted upon the matter.

THE BOUNDARY DIFFICULTY.

Additional News from San Juan Island—Position of Affairs—Movements of U. S. Troops—Proceedings of the Colonial Legislature.

The Overland Mail brings us further particulars of the difficulties at San Juan Island, received at San Francisco by the steamer which left Victoria on the 22d August. The report of the landing of another detachment of U. S. troops on the Island is confirmed. The camp had been removed to a piece of woods immediately behind the barns belonging to the Hudson's Bay Company's station, and a company of sappers and miners was expected from Vancouver, for the purpose of erecting fortifications.

A correspondent of the Gazette, writing from the Island under date of Aug. 17, thus describes the condition of matters there:

I left Victoria last Saturday evening, (13th August,) on the U. S. M. steamer Julia, Capt. Bushnell, for this port, and upon arriving found at anchor in the harbor H. M. S. Tribune and Satellite, and U. S. steamers Massachusetts, Active and Shubrick, which, with our own steamer and the scow-schooner Gen. Harney, gave the place quite an air of business importance.

The Harney was engaged in landing a battery of eight 32-pound guns from the Massachusetts, which were placed "in due form" upon the ridge of the peninsula, six commanding the anchorage, the other two turned to the westward and commanding the waters beyond and in front of the United States troops. Everything on shore was quiet, and nothing had transpired of a nature calculated to provoke or threaten a landing and consequent collision.

Prompt legislative action in relation to the difficulty had been taken by the House of Assembly of British Columbia. On the 12th August the House adopted the following address to Gov. Douglass:

The House acknowledges the receipt of your Excellency's communication of the 3d instant, (published in the Bulletin of 10th August,) relating to the clandestine invasion of San Juan Island by United States troops, and the steps to be adopted in relation thereto. Since that communication, it is well known that additional forces have been landed. The House would, therefore, respectfully inquire why the British forces were not landed, to assert our right to the Island in question, and to uphold the honor of our country and our Queen.

The House would most urgently impress upon your Excellency to enforce upon her Majesty's Government the necessity of demanding from the Government of the United States not only the immediate withdrawal of all her troops, but also strenuously and at all risks to maintain her right to the island in question, and also to all other islands in the same archipelago, now so clandestinely, dishonorably and dishonestly invaded. It is not for our country to be wantonly and insolently insulted, but redress must be demanded.

The weakness of the colony is its greatest danger, and at the same time an inducement for the repetition of similar offences by similar persons. Let it, therefore, be urged upon her Majesty's Government, that sending out colonists rapidly from Great Britain is the surest way not only of maintaining peace, but of preserving intact her Majesty's possessions. Coupled with this, the House would propose that free and liberal grants of land be given to such emigrants, after settling thereon for a certain time.

On the same day, Mr. Skinner gave the following notice of a recommendation to embody a militia force:

Considering the critical state of political affairs throughout the world, and the position of the whole of the British Empire in relation thereto, it is desirable this Colony of Vancouver Island should not be behind the rest of the other Colonies in making such preparations as shall enable it well to defend its loyalty, should occasion at any time arrive for it; this House would earnestly recommend your Excellency to take such steps for forming such volunteer corps as may appear the best adapted to meet the above object.

On the 16th this motion was adopted, and the following debate took place:

Mr. Yates offered a resolution, calling upon the Governor to furnish the House with a copy of the instructions to the naval officers, relating to the landing of British troops on San Juan Island. He stated that the reason of his offering the resolution was that he had heard that Gov. Douglass gave positive orders for the landing of troops, and he wanted to know why they had not been landed.

Mr. Pemberton objected to the motion, thought it an unusual proceeding, and it might be detrimental to the public interest.

Further opposition being expressed to the motion by other members, it was withdrawn.

Mr. Skinner brought forward his motion (given above) urging upon the Governor the great importance of forming volunteer military companies, in view of the present state of affairs throughout the world, and the threatening relations existing between this colony and American officials at San Juan Island. Mr. Skinner was in favor of organizing efficient military companies, not such tomfooleries as he had seen in this colony in times past.

Mr. Helmcken thought the boys in our schools should be taught the use of arms and the soldier's manual.

Mr. Yates remarked, it would be a long war if it was not over before the boys became serviceable.

Mr. Pemberton was opposed to teaching the boys anything of the sort. He was of opinion that boys learned to fight too soon already.

The motion was adopted.

The Victoria Gazette, 18th, says:

There is a report on the street that a "Council of War" was held at Government House on Tuesday, [16th]; the subject, the difficulties growing out of the occupation of Bellevue Island by American troops, and more particularly their avowed intention of erecting fortifications. The "war party" have taken renewed offence at the proceedings of Lieut. Col. Casey to fortify the Island, which they declare, under present circumstances, is little less than an open declaration of war, and this Council was called at their instigation. The Council consisted of His Excellency Gov. Douglass, Admiral Baynes, Colonel Moody, Judge Begbie, and Captains De Courcy, Prevost, and Hornby, and very exciting speeches are said to have been made. Explanations from the United States officers were strongly insisted upon by several members of the Council, which, if unsatisfactory, then active hostilities were to be inaugurated. The final result was, that the "fire-eaters" failed in their efforts, and the previously agreed upon course of waiting orders from home was determined upon. We cannot vouch for the entire truth of these rumors and street conversations, and merely put them in print as portions of current history.

The Victoria Colonist of the 22d intimates that a memorial to the Queen is in preparation.

The latest report is to the effect that the American forces on the island would soon be increased to 2,000 men.

FROM UTAH.

Murder of Mr. McNiel—Discovery of a New Route to Salt Lake City.

Correspondence of the New-York Times:

SAN FRANCISCO, Friday, Aug. 26, 1859.

The Special Correspondent of the TIMES, writing from Salt Lake a year ago last June, gave you an interesting narrative of the experience of Frank McNiel, of Louisiana, while a "prisoner of war" in Mormon hands. McNiel having suffered greatly by the persecution of the traitors at Salt Lake, determined, after the arrival of the army there, to remain in the Valley until he could bring to trial a civil suit against Brigham Young for false imprisonment. A very general sympathy was felt in the case, for the reason that it was looked upon as a test case; and if McNiel could obtain damages for his mal-treatment, there were many others who proposed to institute similar proceedings. We just learn here by the Salt Lake mail that McNiel was murdered in cold blood, in Salt Lake City, the night before the trial was to have commenced.

McNiel had received several "warnings" from different sources, that unless he discontinued his action, or, at least, ceased, his pursuit of Brigham Young, he would be "cut off." Being a stubborn man, not easily intimidated, he persisted in urging his case. On the night of the 8th, (the day prior to the trial,) he had occasion to leave his bed-room about 12 o'clock. As he stepped out, three men quietly gathered about him, and one, putting the muzzle of a pistol almost against his person, fired it off. McNiel fell, pierced by the ball, which had entered at one side, and passed out through the other. He was taken up, and lingered 34 hours, when he died. In his dying declaration, he denounced a Mormon desperado called Lot Huntington as his assassin. Huntington was arrested, and examined before the Federal authorities for the crime. The Mormons adduced such positive testimony to establish his innocence at the preliminary examination, that the Judge was compelled to discharge him. The Gentile population, generally, were satisfied that Huntington had been guilty of the crime; but a thousand precedents satisfy everybody familiar with Mormon history that none of them will hesitate at perjury to screen from punishment by law whoever has committed a crime for the "good of the Church." How long will such proceedings as these be permitted to pass unchecked?

I learn that Capt. Simpson, of the Topographical Engineers, has discovered a route between Carson Valley and the valley of Great Salt Lake even shorter than the route which he had been sent up to explore. He states that the new route is quite straight, and as equally good, if not a superior road, in almost every respect, to both the old immigration line and the new line just discovered by himself. The facts of the Surveying Expedition have been reported to Gen. Johnson, and it is probable that hereafter the bulk of the travel between California and Salt Lake will go by the last discovered route. The agent at Camp Floyd, of the well-known firm of Holladay & Russell, in the Salt Lake trade, writes, under date of Aug. 10, to Mr. Ben. Holladay, who is now in this city, as follows:

Captain Simpson has discovered a route to California better than any yet found. There is good grass and water all the way. There will be no trouble in taking stock over it. He says that it is equally as good as the Northern route. We have a copy of his itinerary of the route, giving all the water, grass and wood, camping places and general directions. We made three copies, and gave each man in charge of H. & R.'s [Holladay & Russell's] cattle a copy. Every one says that cattle can be driven over it as far as Carson Valley so late as November—that is, to start here in November. The longest drive without water is one day, with cattle.

Mr. Holladay is satisfied that by this new route the stage travel between Placerville and Salt Lake City can easily be made in four and a half or five days.

THE PACIFIC COAST.

Later from California, Oregon and the Sandwich Islands.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Friday, Aug. 26.

There is little of local interest transpiring with us at present. The political campaign goes on apace, and continues to be marked by much bitterness. There seems to be no probability of an open fusion between the Republicans and the Anti-Lecompton men, but the chances are that they will fuse on the Congressional ticket, in favor of McKibben and Baker, the last of whom is a Republican candidate. The Anti-Lecompton vote bids fair to be a large one, and McKibben will be elected if he gets the full Republican vote. He is very confident of success. C. L. Scott's chances for reëlection are not so bright as they were; but still I have little doubt that he will win the race, by a very much reduced majority. The Administration State ticket certainly must be elected, if there is no hearty fusion between the elements of opposition to the Administration. There is a possibility, however, that the Anti-Lecompton candidate for State Printer, John O. Meara, may be elected.

Yesterday morning, James Turnbull, Chief of the Placerville Fire Department, and Superintendent of the Pacific Quartz Company, committed suicide by blowing his brains out with a pistol. Turnbull was highly respected by everybody in the community, and it is supposed that he committed the rash act while in a fit of temporary insanity.

Wm. Spoor, a native of Boston, and long connected with the police of that city, died suddenly in this city, night before last, of apoplexy.

OREGON.

The steamer Pacific, arrived here this morning, brings Portland dates to the 22d inst.

A rumor prevailed at the Dalles that Capt. Wallen's command, consisting of 140 well armed and equipped men, had been massacred by the Snake Indians, at Warm Springs. A private letter to Portland, says the Advertiser, reports this disaster, and upon Indian authority, and says the Indian agent at the Dalles believes it true. Capt. Wallen's command consisted of Company E, First Dragoons, commanded by Lieut. Sweitzer, about 60 strong, some 30 sabres of Company H, same regiment, about 40 privates of Company H, Fourth Infantry, and a detachment of 10 Sappers and Miners, armed as riflemen—an aggregate of about 140 rank and file. This force, if not attacked at great disadvantage of situation, should have been able to make head against any body of men which the Snake Indians could muster; and I confess that I have little faith in the statement that the party has been cut off.

A gentleman vouched for as one well acquainted with the Indians east of the Cascades, gives the following statement, which may be the basis of the rumor of disaster to Wallen's command:

"An Indian was on John Day's River hunting horses. He reported that on his return he met three men, bare-footed and bare-headed, almost starved, trying to make their way to the Dalles. They told this Indian that the Snakes attacked Capt. Wallen while passing through a cañon, cut them off and killed all but four who made their escape. These three men say they were of the party."

SANDWICH ISLANDS.

The bark Yankee, which arrived here on Tuesday last, brings us details of news from the Hawaiian Kingdom to the 30th of July.

The American bark J. B. Lancaster foundered off Molokai Island, one of the Hawaiian group, on the 10th of July. This vessel sailed from San Francisco on the 28th of June last, for Sydney and Melbourne, with a cargo consisting of 7,504 bags of rice, 333 hhds. of ale and 50 flasks of quicksilver, manifested of the value of $32,000. The J. B. Lancaster was owned in Philadelphia, was six years old, an extreme clipper model, and cost originally $35,000, but was insured in Philadelphia for $20,000. The cargo, owned by Daniel Gibb & Co. of this City, was also insured.

KANSAS POLITICS.

Southern Kansas—Capt. Montgomery Nominated for the Legislature—Troubles Apprehended—Pickles Demanded, &c.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

LAWRENCE, Kansas, Thursday, Sept. 15, 1859.

I have just returned from a trip into the Counties of Franklin, Lykins and Johnson. The weather has been very pleasant during the past week; the crops look well and promise an abundant harvest. Corn never made a better appearance since the first settlement of our Territory.

The notorious and much-abused, hated and feared Captain of a Kansas Company of "Jay-hawkers," James Montgomery, has been nominated for the Territorial Legislature in Linn and Lykins Counties. The sentiment is decidedly in his favor in that District, and he will be elected by an overwhelming majority.

Pickles, or Wright, the person kidnapped from Kansas and incarcerated in a Missouri jail, remains there still. His release has been demanded; refused by his captors, again demanded, with a threat to rescue him at the point of the bayonet if not complied with; again refused.

The affair has not yet culminated in any outbreak or attempted rescue, but all are expecting something to turn up. No one thinks that Capt. Montgomery will make a threat and not execute it at all hazards; but all are on the look-out for news from Southern Kansas to the effect that Montgomery, with his men, have crossed the State line and gone into Missouri, to demand, in terms not likely to be misunderstood, the immediate and unconditional release of his old companion in arms, Pickles.

Montgomery is reported as having said in a speech at Mound City a short time since, that if he ever was compelled to "go over into Missouri again with his men, he was determined to remain there until that State was free. He had the men; he would augment his strength as he went; he would emancipate the slaves, and render it impossible to hold them as property in that State any more."

It is hoped that wise counsels will prevail, and the kidnapped citizen of Kansas released, and an outbreak prevented.

Everywhere the people are earnest and enthusiastic in their support of the new Constitution. In many settlements the opposition to its ratification is confined to the postmaster appointed by Buchanan.

A large majority will be polled for its adoption; Congress and the Administration permitting, it will become the organic law of the State. The officers elected to office under it cannot do anything in an official capacity until notice has been received of its acceptance by Congress, and our admission into the Union as a State.

It was announced at the opening of Judge Pettit's Court in Leavenworth City a few days since, that the indictment found against Daniel R. Anthony, Champion Vaughn, Weld, Gardner, Bailey and others, for an alleged violation of the Fugitive Slave Law, in the rescue of Chas. Fisher last Winter, had been stolen from the Clerk's office.

The Grand Jury was instructed to find new indictments against them, which they will probably do, and the case will be tried at the next term. The jury has been packed pretty effectually by the Marshal—only one Republican, the rest are mostly Pro-Slavery men. JACQUES.

The Baltimore Press and Mayor Swann.

The Baltimore papers decidedly object to the tone in which Mayor Swann, in his late Message, spoke of the relation of the newspapers with the rowdy violence which has been the chief characteristic of that city for so long a period. In the course of an article reviewing sharply the Mayor's sweeping assertions, the Exchange holds the following language:

"This wholesale abuse of the Press is at present the customary argument of politicians whose dignity it has ruffled, and of rulers whose incapacity it has demonstrated. But its strong and well-established position cannot thus easily be shaken. Sometimes, it is true, it is directed by ignoble hands and swayed by the ignorance or low instincts of those who for a time control it, but in the main it is at least as wise and upright as the generation to which it speaks. In some quarters of the civilized world every hour beholds it struggling to maintain the right, or to repress the excesses of the people and the tyranny of princes. Day by day it is gaining power and rising in the public estimation as men of higher culture and loftier intellect than ever heretofore, are enlisting in its service. It achieves more good than the best of 'city governments' has ever dreamed of, and it will outlive the anger of whole dynasties of mayors."

The Sun introduces its review of the Message as follows:

"In the address of the Mayor 'To the People of Baltimore,' there is a persistent effort to attach responsibility for the lawlessness and crime which disturbed our city to the Press; the further effort is apparent to particularize the Independent Press; and in two special subjects of reference one relates to the Sun, and the other to the Sun in common with other papers. We cannot think it necessary to add anything to what has been already said in refutation of the absurd fallacy that the relation of outrages in the columns of the newspapers can possibly involve accountability for the perpetration of the outrages. And when to the relation of such outrages, and the earnest remonstrances of the Press, the cause of the ill reputation of the city is ascribed, we meet with a fallacy no less absurd. Our municipal ill repute comes from these outrages themselves; the record of them is a duty the Press owes to the public; the suppression of them is the duty the authorities owe to the public. But we say this, that so long as party ends are to be subserved by fraud and violence at our elections, and so long as men unscrupulous enough to give their money, influence, sanction or tacit connivance to the encouragement of fraud and violence to produce given results through nominal elections, are tolerated in public life, so long will lawlessness, vice and crime wield a proportionate influence in this community disastrous to its reputation and welfare."

AGRICULTURAL FAIR IN RHODE ISLAND.

Address by J. Stanton Gould of New-York—General Features of the Exhibition.

Correspondence of the New-York Times:

NEWPORT, Wednesday, Sept. 21.

The Eighth Annual Exhibition of the Aquidneck Agricultural Society commenced yesterday at their Fair Grounds, a short distance from this city. The weather was lowry and uncomfortable, yet not deterring from attendance the more enthusiastic admirers of "native true nobility." A little rain is no obstacle to those hardfisted farmers and their sympathizing wives, who came in from miles around in their ox-carts and wagons, and whatever other vehicles proved most accommodating. To give the occasion a gala appearance, the "Star Spangled banner" was displayed from an elevation, and Gilmore's Germania Band were employed to discourse national airs and country polkas.

The first day of the Fair was devoted to the reception and arrangement of stock and the various articles on exhibition, so that to-day is in fact the opening-day. The appearance of the ground partakes of that of all fairs—musters and public out-door celebrations. The omnipresent Yankee hawking his "salves" and "compounds," and giving every one a chance to look through a brick for only one cent, and to expand their lungs to an incomprehensible degree for five cents more. Caterers of gingerbread and candy find enough patronage to erect their canvas booths, and a few cute "sharpers" occasionally "rope" in a verdant youth.

The stock displayed consists of fat cattle, working oxen, steers, single cattle, bulls, bull calves, cows, heifers, heifer calves, sheep, lambs and swine. In the Department of Cattle the Exhibition is probably as fine as can be produced in New-England. Most of them are working oxen, and of a very superior quality. There are Durhams, Short-horns and Alderney, from farms on the Island of Rhode Island, (anciently called Aquidneck,) all of which are noble specimens of their kind. There exists on the island an ox known to be 24 years old, and owned by L. Bateman, of Newport, which was designed as a contribution to the Fair, had not the foul weather prevented. Mr. Bateman challenges the whole country to produce a similar animal, in respect to age and the condition of the animal. Its weight is 1,800 pounds. The display of cows and calves is good for the number. One very small cow, not larger than a "six months' calf, gives six quarts of milk per day. The sheep are fine specimens, consisting chiefly of Southdowns. The mutton and lamb of Newport is famous over the country. Swine are contributed quite largely, and are admired by the judges. The Horse Day occurs to-morrow, so there are none on the ground to-day. The poultry is in reality a fine exhibition. There are white turkeys, geese, ducks, and fowl of thirteen varieties, most of them well known.

The exhibition of vegetables and fruit is perhaps as perfect as can here be produced. The hall of the Society is filled with these products. On entering, a large picture of the Rocky Mountain Eagle, surmounting a plow, and bearing the words "Speed the plow" in his talons, reminds the observer of the glorious benefits of Agriculture. Vegetables and fruit of every description are deposited, some for competition and others for show only. The potatoes deserve a special notice on account of size and quality. George L. Fish, Esq., of Portsmouth, R. I., exhibits 40 potatoes, which fill half a bushel. Onions are of remarkable size, the contribution of one party being 44 to half a bushel. Squashes, turnips, beets and cucumbers are all of excellent growth, and exhibit careful cultivation. The specimens of grapes are confined to Black Hamburg. The ladies have contributed the skill of their hands to this Exhibition, and make it a kind of Home Industrial Fair. Blankets, shawls, worsted-work, crayon-painting, shell-work, (very pretty,) and hair-working, (very neat,) are among the articles. Curious and unique specimens of workmanship are on exhibition, such as ancient Chinese shoes, a Chinese punch-bowl, fresh-water clam-shells gathered in Kansas, a piece of a whale's back-bone (almost as tenacious as that of the Whig Party,) a shoe worn in 1750, a cucumber grown inside a bottle, and others. It appears as if the garrets and cupboards of every farm-house were ransacked to discover something for the Fair. Cyntha made a tidy, Johnny catched and caged some butterflies, and Tommy caught a bat—all of which were speedily conveyed for exhibition at "the Fair." The morning was occupied in the inspection of articles, and in the delivery of the annual address, which took place at noon. It was practical in its nature, and conveyed a vast amount of useful information on its subject.

The address was delivered by John Stanton Gould, Esq., of New-York, whose theme was the "Cultivation of Grass." After remarking upon the value of grass, and the number and quality of its varieties, he exhibited the statistics of the commodity, showing the great importance of its cultivation. Six-tenths of the whole cultivated area of the State of New-York is occupied by grass, and its annual value in the State was at least $60,000,000. The average production of the meadows of New-York is 66 tons dry hay to the hundred acres. The average production of Kings County is 160 tons to the hundred acres. He found that the difference between the average production of the whole State and this County is not owing to the superiority of its soil or climate, but to the skill of its farmers. He proceeded, then, to classify the grasses into five distinct divisions: 1. Jungle; 2. Aquatic; 3. Marine; 4. Agrarian; 5. Meadow. The best soil adapted for their cultivation is a strong calcareous soil resting on a clay sub-soil, which would resist drouth and heat, and would make a fine, durable sod. A moist sod is shown by experience to be the most favorable. In wet meadows, out of thirty plants, four were useful, twenty-six bad. In dry, out of thirty-eight plants, eight were useful and thirty bad. In moist, out of forty-two plants, seventeen were useful, twenty-five bad. By effecting mechanical and chemical alterations, which are tedious and expensive, we can adapt the soil to nearly every kind of grass. The general principles of seeding, were to sow a variety of seed; to sow such only as flower at the same period, the seeds to be exactly adapted to the soil and climate: and to sow such as produce the most nutritive grasses: and lastly and fully, as important, the meadows on a farm should be so arranged as to come successively to maturity. While these principles are generally admitted to be correct, yet they are habitually neglected in practice. He then stated the grasses adapted to sandy soils, calcareous loams, tenacious clays, and proceeded to speak of the principles to be observed in manuring grasses. The second year was the trying year for young meadows. Food must be supplied by manure. Guano, plaster and ashes should be used next to barn manures. Two parts of Peruvian guano, one of plaster and one of ashes, would be found to invigorate the grass and repress the growth of weeds, and what is of almost equal importance, it will increase the activity of the worms. He then considered the fifth issue of the subject—the irrigation of the soil. My attention was first called to this source of fertility by a visit to the farm of Leonard D. Clift, Esq., of Putnam County, N. J. Mr. Clift has about forty acres under irrigation, which, before they were irrigated, were more difficult to keep in grass than any other portion of the farm. He now takes an immense amount of hay from it, besides much pasture, without the application of any other manure than the simple water that flows over it. Every experiment made within my knowledge has been attended with the most satisfactory results. Irrigation is proved to have the effect of diminishing the number of poor grasses and increasing the number of the better ones. In one very carefully conducted experiment, there were before irrigation, on a given area, 17 grass plants, of 13 varieties. After three years' irrigation there were 27 plants of 9 varieties. There are thousands of streams in the State of New-York which are now wasting their treasures of fertility at the tide waters, which, if skillfully distributed over the grass lands, would incalculably increase their fertility and add correspondingly to the wealth of the State. It has been demonstrated that 6000 cubic yards of the water of the Vaucluse or the Vosges, contain all the elements of an ox, and that the Garonne carries to the sea, every day, more Guano than is imported into France in a year.

The design of the address was to impress upon the minds of the farmers, the necessity of an increase in the production of grass, for with its increase would be a corresponding augmentation of other products tending to greater agricultural wealth, which is the stimulus of the nation.

To-morrow a ploughing match occurs, an exhibition of horses, and the award of premiums. HIPPARCHUS.

THE POLICE COMMISSIONERS.

MUNICIPAL POLICEMEN REINSTATED—RESIGNATIONS AND DISMISSALS—ALLEGED BRIBERY—RULES AND REGULATIONS.

At the secret session of the Police Commissioners, which commenced at 2 P. M. yesterday and lasted two hours, all the members were present and Mr. Stillman presided. The following members of the old Municipal Police force were reinstated: M. O'Brien, of the Fourteenth Precinct; W. Farrel, of the Seventeenth Precinct; J. H. Voss, of the Seventeenth Precinct; J. Long, of the Seventeenth Precinct; T. Wallace, of the Fourteenth Precinct; and J. Barrett, of the Sixth Precinct. The resignations of Officers Jeremiah Higgins, of the Sixth Precinct, Brooklyn, and Samuel Mahon, of the Sixth Precinct, New-York, were presented and accepted. Officers Thaddeus C. Ferris, of the Sixth Precinct, charged with seduction, and Wm. Quinn, of the First Precinct, charged with absenting himself from his post without leave, were dismissed from the Force. The Board spent an hour and a half in discussing proposed amendments to the rules and regulations of the Department. It is intended that many of the rules and regulations of the Department now in force shall be reconstructed or repealed; that those which conflict with each other shall be made to accord, and that where they have been altered by resolutions of the Board, the alterations shall be fully indicated. Especially the exact duties of the chief officers of the Department are to be defined, and the executive powers of the General Superintendent are to be increased. The precise nature of the discussions on this subject, yesterday, did not transpire. The Board adjourned to next Monday, 11 A. M., at which time the trial of Dr. A. S. Jones, charged with receiving a bribe, will take place before all the Commissioners. Officer Chamberlain, of the Third Precinct, alleges that Dr. Jones, who is one of the surgeons of the Department, received from him (Chamberlain) $50 for and in consideration of a promise that he (Jones) would use his influence at headquarters in getting the complainant detailed for duty at one of the station houses. The charge, if made good, is equally discreditable to both parties.

Daily Prayer-Meeting Movement.

SECOND ANNIVERSARY OF THE FULTON-STREET PRAYER-MEETING—BUSINESS MEN'S PRAYER-MEETING RESUMED.

Yesterday, in accordance with the announcement, the "Second Anniversary of the Fulton-street Prayer-Meeting" was celebrated in an appropriate and very interesting manner. The meetings for prayer have been held, for two years, in the North Dutch Church, corner of Fulton and William streets, and it was there that the anniversary services were held. The exercises commenced at mid-day, and at that time the church edifice was crowded to its utmost, and hundreds who desired to participate were obliged to go away, simply because there was no room within. Rev. Dr. Leland presided, and was supported by Rev. Drs. Tyng, DeWitt, Thompson, Wm. Adams, Krebbs, Murray, Marsh, Taylor, Chickering, Blair, Burchard, T. L. Cuyler, Scudder, of India, and a number of others. The exercises commenced with the singing of a hymn, and the singing was followed by prayer by Dr. Leland, who also delivered an address, in which he spoke of the meeting, and of the meetings that had there been held, as having been called together by God, for he thought no monarch on earth could have gathered them there. He then reviewed the progress of the awakening as it had been apparent at the meetings during the past two years, and congratulated all that they had been so fortunate as to be present.

The Rev. Dr. Tyng spoke of the benefits flowing from such a meeting; and felt that every soul was filled with thankfulness as the past was reviewed, and that they had a glorious hope for the future. There they had come to touch the great corner stone, which was Christ, and to feel that they had to be individually connected with Jesus. He believed that they felt that they had been living in Jesus, and that no other relation was as precious, and no condition so desirable; and that they should continually praise Him who had wrought such a great work.

Dr. Murray followed in an effective address, in which he spoke of the direction to the Apostles to preach the Gospel to every creature, and of their having to tarry nine days in Jerusalem for the power from on high, which was the baptism of the spirit. Having received that, they went out and "turned the world upside down." He said it was the baptism of the spirit they all needed; and if they had it, they would do as the Apostles did.

Prayer was made by the Rev. Dr. Marsh, and, after another hymn had been sung, Mr. G. H. Stewart, of Philadelphia, spoke, alluding to the temptations of the counting-room, and the joy which the Christian merchant felt when an opportunity was afforded him of joining in the worship of God at noonday. He urged the people to continue the "Fulton-street Prayer Meetings," and assured them that the influence of the meetings there held had been great throughout the entire country.

Mr. Stewart was followed by the Rev. Dr. Edgar, of the Irish Delegation, who told them that in Ireland they were not afraid of the Cossacks and Austrians, but that wily priests and still more wily nuns were there to influence to their ruin sons and daughters, and fathers and mothers, and he and his associates were here to ask their aid to counteract and to destroy that influence, and to assist in taking poor Ireland out of the hands of Rome. In conclusion, he hoped that the spirit of the Lord would never depart from America.

When Dr. Edgar had concluded, prayer was offered by Dr. Chickering, of Portland, and then the Rev. Mr. Dill, also of the Irish Delegation, addressed the meeting, in relation to the revival in Ireland. The meeting he was addressing was large, but in Ireland the meetings were larger; they were monster meetings, in which the inebriate was reformed, and men were brought to prayer who never prayed before. He believed the revival in Ireland had been greatly benefited by the prayers of the Fulton-street meetings, and he urged them to continue in well-doing.

The Rev. Mr. Wilson, another of the Irish Delegation, addressed the meeting, speaking of the great influence for good that the Fulton-street Prayer meetings had had upon the religious awakening in Ireland. In the course of his remarks, he spoke of having read in a newspaper concerning the death of the Rev. Dudley A. Tyng, and of having felt refreshed, and more desirous than before to "stand up for Jesus."

The Rev. Dr. Scudder, of India, spoke of the advantages of such meetings, and asked the assemblage to pray for the mission in India, and after prayer and singing and benediction, the meeting separated.

BUSINESS MEN'S DAILY UNION PRAYER-MEETING CONVENTION.

The Convention which has for its object the renewal of the prayer-meetings of last year, held its first session last evening in the Cooper Institute, and will continue to sit through Saturday (to-day), Sunday and Monday. Mr. Wm. E. Dodge was called to the chair. Several hymns were sung, many exhortations delivered, and much religious experience related. The audience, though not quite so fervid as some of its predecessors, was sufficiently large to fill two-thirds of the hall.

Attempted Suicide of Mr. Thompson.

BROOKLYN, Friday, Sept. 23, 1859.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

The account of the attempted suicide of L. Thompson, of Cheever-place, Brooklyn, in your issue of Tuesday last, is not in all respects correct.

The facts are these: on Friday of last week, while writing a letter to those who had occasioned social differences, he was seized with a paroxysm which rendered him wholly unconscious, and it was while in this state of mental derangement that he inquired for arsenic at a drug-store, at which place he was arrested, remaining entirely ignorant of everything transpiring.

These facts were clearly proven by two witnesses before Judge Cornwell, who dismissed the case, the charge of intoxication being fully disproved, as from the time of his dining at his father's house up to that of his arrest (being less than two hours) was insufficient to admit of his meriting the preferred charge.

By inserting this in your valuable journal, you will greatly oblige A FRIEND OF THE FAMILY.

The Post-Office System.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I was gratified that in this morning's paper you called attention to our Post-office system, with especial reference to the delivery of letters in the City. You have spoken of one of the evils of that delivery. But there is another more annoying, and that is the unnecessary time consumed in the delivery of them. It takes longer for a letter to travel from the Post-office to its destination than for one to go from this City to Washington. Yesterday, at 3 o'clock P. M., three letters were delivered to me, which were received at the City Post-office at 10 o'clock the preceding night—thus requiring fourteen hours to reach their destination—a distance of four blocks from the Post-office. And this is of daily occurrence. Can it be remedied? Very truly yours, ANN-STREET.

FEDERAL POLITICS.

Senator Douglas on the Supreme Court and the Dred Scott Decision—Popular Sovereignty.

We find in the Columbus Statesman of the 20th, a full report of the speech of Senator DOUGLAS at Wooster, Ohio, on the 16th. The principal portion of the speech goes over the same grounds as his previous addresses at Columbus and Cincinnati, which we have already published. The following extract, however, is of interest, because it treats a point hitherto only partially discussed, viz.: the relation of the Dred Scott decision to the question of Popular Sovereignty:

We are told by the Republicans on every stump that this doctrine of Popular Sovereignty is dead. They say Judge TANEY killed it; [laughter;] that it had its throat cut by the Dred Scott decision; that Popular Sovereignty has no longer a breath of life in its body—for they tell you that the Supreme Court, in the Dred Scott case, has decided that the people of a Territory have no right to determine the Slavery question for themselves while in a Territory. I have no doubt that you have heard this from the Republicans on every stump in the State, but that not one of them undertook to prove it true. There is not one word of truth in the whole statement. The Supreme Court has decided no such thing. It has not decided that Slavery existed in the Territory by virtue of the Constitution of the United States. It is true the President of the United States fell into the error of making that statement in his message communicating the Lecompton Constitution to Congress. But the Supreme Court have not sanctioned the doctrine. It has declared that the right of property in slaves is distinctly recognized in the Constitution of the United States. That the faith of the United States is pledged to protect it in all future time, if the slave escapes from his owner. That the only power conferred is the power coupled with the duty of guarding and protecting the rights of the owner when the slave escapes. This is the power Congress has—to provide for the return of the fugitive slave when he runs away. The Court then goes on to say, that in all other respects, slave property stands on precisely the same footing as all other property. It says that there is no word in the Constitution which confers upon Congress greater power over slave property, or entitles that property to less protection than any other kind of property; and that inasmuch as the Constitution has made no distinction between it and all other property, therefore no department of the Government can make any such distinction. Now I affirm all that doctrine that the Court has held. I affirm each one of the propositions, that Slavery stands on an equal footing with all other property, and that Congress has no more or no less power over it.

Well now, upon what footing does other property stand in the Territories? Has Congress the right to interfere with your horses, your cattle, your wagons, your plows, your merchandise, or your wheat in the Territories? Did Congress ever yet pass a law creating a criminal code for any Territory of the United States? If your horse is stolen in a Territory do you apply to the Federal Courts to punish the thief? Never! If your horse is stolen in a Territory you go to the Territorial Courts, and the man is punished under the Territorial law, and not under the Act of Congress. If a horse is stolen in Ohio, you cannot sue in the Federal Court, because it is a local offence, punishable under the local law, in the local Courts. And so it is in the Territory—murder, rape, arson, robbery, all the crimes that stain the records of a Court, are punishable in the Territory under the local law. Every description of property in all the Territories of the United States is dependent upon the local law for its protection. Life, liberty and property in the Territory are all under the protection and guardianship of the local law, to be administered and enforced by the local authority. Then if Congress cannot interfere with any other kind of property in the Territories, either to exclude it, prohibit it, or protect it, how can it interfere with Slave property in the Territories? According to the Dred Scott Decision the Federal Government cannot interfere in the Territory with Slavery, either for it or against it, and that is the affirmance precisely of my doctrine and your doctrine, and the Democratic doctrine of Popular Sovereignty.

Yet, it is true that I have been represented by my enemies as having attacked the Supreme Court and the Dred Scott decision in my advocacy of Popular Sovereignty. I do not often notice attacks, but I will give one moment to an assault recently made, out of respect for the high authority from which it is said to have come. In the cars, this morning, a friend handed me a pamphlet, entitled "Observations on Senator DOUGLAS' views on Popular Sovereignty, as expressed in Harper's Magazine for September, 1859." The pamphlet is anonymous, but the newspapers published it as written by JERRY BLACK, the same man who, last year, wrote letters to Illinois urging Federal office-holders to support Abolitionists to office in preference to the regular Democratic ticket. ["Shame on him," "He's a renegade," &c.] Whether he is the author or not I have no means of knowing, except the fact that it is so stated in the newspapers, and the additional fact that the gentleman who furnished the pamphlet to me received it under JERRY BLACK's frank. I will read the last sentence of the pamphlet first:

"We are called upon to make a contest, at once unnecessary and hopeless, with the judicial authority of the nation. We object to it. We will not obey Mr. DOUGLAS when he commands us to assault the Supreme Court of the United States. We believe the Court to be right, and Mr. DOUGLAS wrong."

Again, he says:

"In case he is elected President he must see the laws faithfully executed. Does he think he can keep that oath by fighting the Judiciary?"

This, bear it in mind, pretends to be a review of my exposition of Popular Sovereignty in Harper's Magazine. As we rode through the streets I saw the boys circulating that article by the hundred and perhaps by the thousand, and I invite you to look into it and see if there is a word of censure of the Supreme Court or its decision. Not one word. The author of the pamphlet knew when he made the charge against me that it was an infamous falsehood. I care not who he is. There is no man in America who has made as many speeches in defence of the Court against the assaults of the Republican Party as I have.

Last year, in the Illinois canvass, I made just one hundred and thirty speeches, in every one of which I vindicated the Court. [Cheers.] The man does not live who can meet me, look me in the eye, and pretend to be honest, and assert what is insinuated in that paper. The author knows it to be false. If you look at the article in Harper's Magazine, which he pretends to review, you will find that so far from assailing the Supreme Court or the Dret Scott decision, I quote that decision to prove that my doctrine of Squatter Sovereignty is the true doctrine of the Constitution, and I do prove it, and yet the author of this pamphlet dare not quote a word to show that his charge that I assail the Court is true. What can be thought of the man who will prostitute a high Government office by writing deliberate falsehoods to mislead the American people? No wonder he made it anonymous. [Laughter.] No wonder he did not sign his name to it. When I write, I write my own name, and when I speak, I speak in language that cannot be misunderstood, and every one knows that I am responsible for what I say. I do not assault personal enemies through anonymous pamphlets. I do not say who the author is, but whoever he is, he is a calumniator, and knew that what he was writing was a tissue of falsehoods from beginning to end.

I will notice another statement in this pamphlet, for I understand that Ohio and the northwestern States are to be flooded with it. Speaking of me again, he says:

"He claims for the Territorial Government the right of confiscating private property on the ground that those Governments ARE sovereign—have an uncontrolable and independent power over all their internal affairs."

Now, this is a deliberate falsehood. I never claimed that a territory possessed the power of confiscating private property. I deny that private property can be confiscated either by a Territory or a State, or by the Federal Government. It cannot be confiscated under our Constitution by any power on earth, except it is taken away by the due process of law. This statement contains a double falsehood—first, that I advocate confiscation of private property; secondly, that I justify it on the ground that a Territory was a sovereign power. I never said that a Territory was a sovereign power. I never uttered such a piece of nonsense in any speech or report that I ever made or wrote, and the author of this statement knows that I never did, for he occupies the last two pages in proving that I have said over and over again that the Territory was not a sovereign power. [Laughter and applause.] He quotes from my report as Chairman of the Committee on Territories in the Senate, in 1856, the following:

"The sovereignty of a Territory remains in abeyance, suspended in the United States, in trust for the people until they shall be admitted into the Union as a State. In the mean time they are admitted to enjoy and exercise all the rights and privileges of self-government in subordination to the Constitution of the United States, and IN OBEDIENCE TO THE ORGANIC LAW, passed by Congress in pursuance of that instrument. These rights and privileges are all derived from the Constitution through the act of Congress, and must be exercised and enjoyed in subjection to all the limitations and restrictions which that Constitution imposes."

I affirm every word of that extract now. The Territory is no more sovereign than were the Colonies sovereign before the revolution, but while the Territories are not sovereign they have the inalienable right of self-government—of managing their own affairs and domestic institutions the same as the Colonies had prior to the Revolution. Thus you see that there has been a deliberate attempt to misrepresent my position, the author of the article knowing that I did not hold the opinions he attributed to me.

After accusing me of a desire to confiscate property he goes on to say:

"On the other hand, the President, the Judges of the Supreme Court, nearly all the Democratic members of Congress, the whole of the party South, and a very large majority North, are penetrated with a conviction that no such power is vested in a Territorial Legislature, and that those who desire to confiscate private property of any kind must wait until they get a Constitutional Convention or the machinery of a State Government in their hands."

According to this new doctrine, before you can confiscate private property you must wait until you have a State Government, and the inference is, that when you have a State Government you can confiscate it. Do you admit that the State Government of Ohio can confiscate any man's private property in the State? I deny this heresy that you can confiscate property when a Territory becomes a State any more than you can when it is in a Territory, or that you can do it in either. But these misrepresentations have been made for the purpose of attacking me and breaking the force of the position occupied by the Democratic Party.

I would be sorry to be under the necessity of replying to an attack made on myself, and if that attack was only intended for me I would not have noticed it. But it is made at me and through me at all the friends of popular sovereignty throughout the country. It is intended to hit my friend, Judge RANNEY, who stands on the same platform as your candidate for Governor. [Cheers.] It is intended to reach and strike down the gallant DODGE, who leads the Democracy of Iowa, and stands on the same platform; it is intended to reach and strike down the gallant HOBART, who is the Democratic candidate for Governor of Wisconsin, and stands on the same platform; it is intended to reach and strike down the indomitable BECKER, who leads the indomitable hosts as candidate for Governor in Minnesota, standing on the same platform; it is intended to reach and strike down all the Democratic candidates throughout the country who maintain the doctrine of popular sovereignty. All I can say is, that when any band or set of men attempt to declare war against this great doctrine of popular sovereignty and its advocates, they will have their hands full. [Applause.] Whenever you have struck down the champions of popular sovereignty and its advocates in the Northwest, you have struck down the entire Democratic Party. [Cheers.] If there is one principle on earth which binds the Democracy together with more unanimity than all others, throughout the entire land, it is this great principle of the right of every political community, loyal to the Constitution and the Union, to govern itself in respect to its internal concerns.

A New British Steamer for the Pacific.

The following notice of the British steamer Bogota is taken from the Liverpool Albion of Sept. 5. We publish it because of the interest which attaches to every improvement in the running of ocean steamers. The Bogota belongs to the line running between Panama and Valparaiso, touching at all the prominent ports on the coast, and which has been conducted with so much success during the last ten years.

The Lima, referred to in the article which we quote, after being provided with an engine on the double-cylinder principle, left Liverpool for the Pacific in June last, and her consumption of coal to Valparaiso was but little more than half that of the passage from that port to Liverpool.

The Pacific Steam Navigation Company are now building two screw steamships, to be placed on the line between Panama and Callao, touching at several ports not heretofore embraced in the itinerary of that Company.

THE BOGOTA.—We have had an opportunity of inspecting this magnificent mail steamship, the property of the Pacific Steam Navigation Company, now lying in the Huskisson Graving Dock, and recommend her to the notice of all connoisseurs in naval architecture. Her cabins are fitted up with great taste, and are models of comfort and good ventilation. This vessel has been refitted by RANDOLPH, ELDER & Co., in the Clyde, with engines on the double-cylinder principle, similar to those of the Lima, Callao and Valparaiso, which we formerly described at some length; and, in the case of the Bogota, the success, in point of economy of fuel, the great object aimed at by this new patent, has, we understand, been even more successful than that of her predecessors. We are informed that the Bogota has been altogether about 37 hours under steam, in the Clyde, on the run thence to this port, and at the Admiralty trial-trip in the Mersey on Friday, and the consumption of coal has been only 36 tons, (Clyde description,) or something under a ton an hour, and the speed attained has averaged fully 12¾ knots per hour, or nearly 13 knots for every ton of coal consumed. The nominal power of the engines is said to be 320 horse, worked up to 1,080 horse. She registers 1,163 tons, and is of builders' measurement 1,650 tons. The run from the Cloch to the Bell Buoy, with head and beam winds, was accomplished in 15¼ hours; and during the Admiralty trial-trip, which took place immediately on her arrival in the Mersey, she got a maximum speed of 13½ knots an hour. At a meeting of the New-England Historic-Genealogical Society, in Boston, on Wednesday, a painting was exhibited which was executed by a Natick Indian, named Solomon Wamsycon, about the year 1730. It is painted on a smooth pine board, about five feet long, and sixteen inches in width, and represents three stags sporting under the trees, they being considerably taller than the trees aforesaid, which surround them. The picture has the appearance of having been the work of an uncultivated genius, and was at the time considered a masterpiece. The artist died in the year 1755.

A company have been boring for salt on the grounds of Mr. T. L. Drake, on the New-Haven Railroad. Last week, at the depth of 71 feet, they struck a fissure in the rock through which they were boring, when they tapped a vein of water and oil, yielding 400 gallons of pure oil every 24 hours. The pump now in use throws only five gallons per minute of water and oil into a large vat, when the oil rises to the top, and the water runs out from the bottom. In a few days they will have a pump of three times the capacity of the one now in use, and then from ten to twelve hundred gallons of oil will be the daily yield.

The inauguration of the Chelmsford (Mass.) Monument, raised to the Revolutionary dead of the town, took place on Thursday. The ceremonies consisted of music, singing, and addresses by distinguished gentlemen.

LAW REPORTS.

TRIAL OF THE VIGILANCE COMMITTEE.

The Hudson City Barber's Case—Mower vs. Bogardus—Summing up of Ex-Judge Dean for the Defence and Chauncey Shaffer for the Plaintiff.

The Court-room was more densely crowded than before the opening of the Court yesterday morning, a large concourse having been drawn to the scene by the announcement that counsel were to address the jury upon the case. The interest of the jury and the bar, and of the audience without the rail, was sustained throughout the session.

Ex-Judge Dean first addressed the Jury on behalf of the defendants. He relied mostly on the plaintiff's apparent contradiction of his affidavit, made to change the venue, by his testimony on the trial; and also the variance between the complaint, that affidavit and his testimony on the stand—all three of which, counsel contended, made a different statement of facts, or different statements alleged to be facts. He now testifies, said counsel, that his wrist was broken at the time he was dragged out of his office and thrown upon the pavement; he testifies that he got up and discovered that his wrist turned over upon his arm, and it was not until then that he discovered that he was surrounded by a mob, but in his complaint he has alleged that his wrist was broken by a fall while running, from the mob, after the ring was opened, and after he was tarred and feathered. Counsel then alluded to the fact that the witness stated in his complaint that he sat down on a knoll after his endeavor to take refuge in the trouble, and it was then he discovered his wrist was broken, and said that the plaintiff was like the "man in our town who "was so wondrous wise," quoting the famous lines from "Mother Goose." The plaintiff had testified that the mob had blinded him with tar and sand. His eyes were out or as good as out, and he must have "scratched them in again," by the brier bush operation. As the plaintiff's counsel had made some Latin quotations for his benefit, and the benefit of the jury, he (defendant's counsel) would therefore quote some Latin, and it was "Scripta manit." What is written, remains. It was thus that the plaintiff should be confounded. His own complaint and affidavits would sufficiently answer his present testimony. The complaint, affidavit and present personal evidence of the plaintiff were further compared by counsel, especially in relation to the time of his first alleged return to Hudson after his flight. Counsel contended that the defendants had shown themselves all absent, except such as had clearly shown that they were the plaintiff's friends, and did all that they could to prevent the outrage.

Among the points relied on by the defendant's counsel as law, in support of his positions, were the following: To constitute a riot there must be an unlawful assemblage, "with intent mutually to assist one another against all who shall oppose." (3 Greenl., § 216.) Therefore none can be held except those who confederate. (See Ib., § 221; 2 Camp., 358, 370; 4 Burr. 2,073; 1 Hale, P. C., 462-3.) To implicate himself a man must join himself to the others, or encourage them in some positive way, as by signs, words, gestures, or wearing a badge. A citizen may, if he sees a breach of the peace, interfere, but he is not responsible to a party injured if he does not.

Mr. Shaffer then followed for the defence, and in his exodium dwelt with some earnestness upon the importance to the country at large and to this City in particular, that this jury should say that mob-law was not to condemn and Judge Lynch to execute. The rights of the public depend upon the proper administration of justice and the authority of law. If a man violated any statute he was amenable to it, and not to the tender mercies of an enraged mob. It was not denied that the plaintiff was outraged in the most brutal and inhuman manner, and the only question was—Who did it? This was shown. The evidence was sufficient to show that if the defendants did not perform the act they instigated it, and some of them were present aiding and abetting. Counsel then went into an examination of the evidence of the different witnesses, and commented at length. He was particularly severe upon the witness Crist, who was sworn for the defence. He had made claim to being a lawyer. If he was a lawyer, why did he not know who sent him the subpœna? It might be probable that his claim to the profession was about as valid as the claim of the man to be a carpenter and joiner because he had sawed wood; or the man who was a leather-dealer because he blacked boots. Why did he go to Mr. Huff with the silly lie that he did not know who subpœnaed him—as though he could not read. Every subpœna had the name of the lawyer upon it. It was evident he was trying to effect some unworthy object. He then advised Crist that if he intended to be a lawyer, to put himself into the hands of some good lawyer, who would "latter" him, and make a man of him by the time his beard grew. [The witness listened rather uneasily, but with now and then a whisper from defendant's counsel, he continued to bear with patience all that followed.]

Counsel, in conclusion, again referred to the importance of the case as a precedent, which would suppress or encourage mob law and ruffianism, and made a good point in regard to the person upon whom the violence was practiced. If a set of men were to chastise any one, let them take a person who was capable of defending himself, and not pitch upon a poor defenceless old negro. The spirit of those who had outraged him was clearly shown by their act.

Counsel closed his address by enjoining the Jury to fix a penalty that would sufficiently punish the malice, for that was the point of law. If malice was proven, it must be punished. Malice was proven by the act itself, and the Jury would meet it with the spirit of men determined to secure themselves and their own households against the hands of violence.

The following authorities were relied on by the counsel in support of his view of the liability of those who countenanced the outrage by their presence: 1 Cow.Tr, 613,111; Johns, 265; [Chit., P. L., (Springfield ed., 1837,) 91; Judson vs. Cook, 11 Barb., 642; Coats vs. Darby, 2 Comst., 517; case of Knapps and Crowninshield, tried for the murder of Ezra White, at Salem.

After the conclusion of the summing up, the Court stated to the Jury that they might receive their charge on Saturday or Monday, as they desired. It was finally agreed that Monday should be the day, and after the Judge had cautioned the Jury against outside influence, the Court adjourned.

CORRUPTION AT THE CITY HALL.

Terence Farley and the Street Department—Application to Restrain Contractor from Grading Fifty-eighth-street—A Test Case.

The case of Stephen V. Appleby vs. The Mayor, Aldermen, &c., and Terence Farley, was yesterday argued before the General Term of the Supreme Court, before Justices ROOSEVELT, SUTHERLAND and CLERKE, on an appeal from the Special Term. The following is the history of the case: In December, 1856, the Common Council adopted an ordinance that Fifty-eighth-street, between Eighth and Ninth avenues, be graded. In pursuance of the ordinance, Joseph S. Taylor, then Street Commissioner, issued a notice to contractors, calling for sealed proposals to do the work, in which he stated that 3,501 cubic yards of earth and 12,388 cubic yards of rock would be required to be excavated.

Some seven or eight proposals were received by the Commissioners, and on the 21st of April, 1857, he sent a communication to the Common Council, stating that of that number Terence Farley was the lowest bidder, and also giving the names of the other bidders, and the amount by each proposed. According to the estimate of the amount of excavation to be made, Farley was to receive $6,470 85 for doing the work; but the contract did not state that Farley was to be paid for removing only the number of yards stated, but $1 85 per cubic yard for all the earth removed.

On the 6th of July, 1857, the plaintiff, who was a taxpayer, and to be taxed for the labor to be done under the said contract, brought suit in his own and the behalf of others, to set aside the contract between Farley and the Corporation, on the ground of fraud and collusion between him and Mr. Taylor, the Street Commissioner.

The complaint set up that the plaintiff and others interested, had the distance to be graded surveyed, and that upon actual survey, the amount of rock to be excavated did not exceed 7040 cubic yards, and that the earth excavation would be about 6945 cubic yards—all not exceeding 14,000 yards; and charged that the Street Commissioner had made his estimate without survey, and that he had exaggerated the amount of rock excavation to deter contractors from bidding, while Farley was privy to the fact of the exaggeration, or misstatement. The complaint also stated and alleged that Farley was, in fact, the highest bidder instead of the lowest, and that the communication of the Street Commissioner to the Common Council in relation thereto was untrue, and was intended to deceive, and did deceive, that body, and that the contract was confirmed by that body, and approved by the Mayor, Mr. Wood, in consequence of such false representations and estimates of the Street Commissioner.

The complaint alleged that by the proposal of C. C. Ellis, one of the bidders for said contract, the entire work would not cost over $7,377 75, whereas, by Farley's contract, he would actually receive $12,848 25, most of which additional sum would be assessed upon the property of the plaintiff.

The complaint also alleged that the plaintiff had made inquiries at the Street Commissioner's Office, and that he had been there informed that there was no other survey or estimate of the work to be done by Farley, than the one mentioned in the notice to contractors by the Commissioner. The answer set up general and counter allegations in relation to the main charges of the complaint.

On the trial one of the witnesses for the plaintiff, William O. Leggett, a clerk in the office of the Street Commissioner, testified that there was a survey of the work done and to be done by Farley, made by E. L. Viele, a City surveyor. The survey was produced. E. L. Viele, the surveyor, was put upon the stand for the plaintiff, and testified that he made the survey for the Commissioner. It was made as a guide for bidders. He did not suppose it was to be made the basis of a contract.

Farley testified in his own behalf that he never had any negotiations with the Street Commissioner in regard to the contract; he had never seen the bid since it was put in, and was not an intimate friend of the Commissioner, and that the estimate of the Commissioner was supposed to be correct.

The testimony being all in, the Court, Judge DAVIES, held that from the evidence in the case, Farley was the highest instead of the lowest bidder, and that any contract so made under the charter was void. Judgment was entered, declaring the contract illegal and void, and granting a perpetual injunction restraining defendant Farley from doing the work under the contract, and the Corporation from permitting it to be done under the contract.

Appeal was then taken by Farley to the General Term, on the ground that the Court at Special Term erred in holding that the contract was void in consequence of its conflict with the amended charter of 1853.

It was now argued at General Term, by his counsel, on above point stated in the notice of appeal, and some other minor points, such as that the plaintiff had no standing in Courts he could not assume to supervise the expenditures of the public moneys, no more as an owner of real estate liable to assessment, than as a mere freeholder liable to be taxed at large. That assuming that the estimate by which the bids were tested was erroneous, still that is no ground to set aside the contract as between Farley and the City; that no fraud was proven, and it was only in such cases that a contract could be set aside as void.

The respondent now contended, as in the Court below, that the contract was illegal, because it was not awarded to the lowest bidder, and should therefore be set aside. It should be set aside because the proposals and estimate did not state the quantity and quality, or nature and extent of the work required, "as near as possible." It should be set aside because it was entered into between the Street Commissioner and Farley, before it was authorized by the Board of Aldermen. It should be set aside because it was not accompanied by the justification of sureties or any affidavit that the sureties were freeholders, or worth the amount of the security. The contract should be set aside because the proposals, estimates, contracts and papers relative thereto had not been laid before the Common Council. As to the competency of the plaintiff to move for the injunction, the respondent contended that as an owner of six lots on the street to be graded, and liable to be largely assessed for the proposed improvements, he had such a special and direct interest in the matters of the controversy as to warrant his application to the Court for its interference to prevent the injury to himself and other owners in the same street, which will be occasioned if the contract is allowed to be performed.

Decision reserved.

TRIAL FOR SWINDLING.

John McAlpine Arraigned for Robbing a Governess—One of Three Indictments.

John McAlpine, alias Col. Marmaduke Reeves, of the British Army, alias Col. Johnstone, of Charleston, S. C., alias Walter Mack, of Cuba, alias Col. Bruce, of Cuba, alias Mr. Prince, alias—but we have no more room to spare for his other aliases—was yesterday placed at the bar of the Court of General Sessions, Judge RUSSELL presiding, charged, on the first of three indictments, with robbing a young lady, a governess, of a carbuncle ring. McAlpine is an old offender, and has served a term of two years in the State Prison. The following evidence will show the nature of the present charge against him:

John W. Sparks, Assistant Clerk of the Court of General Sessions, being duly sworn, deposed to the fact of McAlpine's previous conviction in June, 1852, of embezzlement, before Recorder TILLOU, and to his having been sent for two years to the State Prison.

Cora L. Woodbine, examined: I am 25 years of age; I am a governess; I have been governess in the family of Mr. Brown, at Providence, R. I., and of Mr. H. W. Johnston of this City; I was in New-York on the 25th of August last; I inserted an advertisement in the newspapers for a situation to teach German, French, and the English branches; I received but one answer; I have not that answer now; the answer was to the effect that if the advertiser had the highest testimonials and references, she would obtain a desirable situation in the family of a gentleman who was on the point of returning to a tropical climate to reside. "Please to address Walter Mack, Post-office, Station D., Bible House." I went to some friends and showed them the answer; they said they thought it was very good, and I went home and wrote to Mr. Mack that I would be at home, at No. 135 Hudson-street, where I was boarding, the next morning, from 11 to 2 o'clock; on Monday, Aug. 29, about 12, a gentleman calling himself Walter Mack called on me; I asked him to go into the parlor; there were one or two gentlemen in the parlor, and he said he did not wish to go in, as he did not wish any listeners; I remained with him in the entry; he asked for my references, and made several inquiries as to my capacity to teach; I presented him six written testimonials from persons who had employed me; he read them carefully; there were some German testimonials; he said he did not understand German; he asked if I could play the piano and sing; wanted to know if I spoke French fluently; I said I did; he asked if I had any objection to walk with him to St. John's Park, where he would speak more freely; I went with him there, and after sitting down in the Park, he asked me the same questions over again; he then said that perhaps I might have some objection to accompany him, as he was a widower; I said if he behaved himself properly, and conducted himself as a gentleman, as I thought he was, I should have no objection; he said I should believe there was no one who thought so much of a point of honor as himself; he promised I should have everything to make my home comfortable with his children; I then asked him if his children were in town; he said they were at a boarding-school in Philadelphia; he then asked me what amount of salary I should expect, and I said as it was to go South, I should want $500; he agreed to give that amount; I told him that after I was engaged I should require him to pay my board, if he remained long in the City; he asked me if I would accept the engagement immediately; I replied that I could not decide so quickly; he said he must have an immediate answer, as he had several others who would be glad to accept the offer; he told me he would give me till evening to decide, and that I should meet him for that purpose in Washington-square; I objected to that, saying it was not a fit place to make a business engagement; I asked him if it would not be better to give me his address at his hotel; he said he had a great deal of business, and had an engagement at seven o'clock, and that it would be more convenient for him to see me there; we then left St. John's Park, and he remarked, on leaving, that I had been so long governess, I must have a large sum of money; I told him it was not the case, as I had lost all in a school speculation; and for that reason I wanted a situation immediately; I then left him, and met him at six o'clock; I met him again at Washington-square; he asked me whether I had decided to engage with him; I told him I had; I then told him I was short of money, and as I had made the engagement, that he should pay my board from that time; he said he would agree to do so, and he would take me to board at a hotel, as he did not know how long he would stay, as he expected every day letters which would decide him when to leave; he told me to tell my landlady that I must leave on Thursday following, and at that time he would inform me definitely when he would quit the City; he told me to meet him at Post-office Station D, on Thursday afternoon, Sept. 1, at four o'clock; I then parted from him, and met him at the Post-office at the time agreed upon; he told me to walk with him to the Everett House, as he had an appointment with a gentleman there on business; I accompanied him, and arriving at Union-square, he told me to wait a few minutes, while he would walk into the Everett House and see his friend; he returned in a few minutes, and seemed to be vexed and displeased, holding in his hand a letter; he told me he was angry because he had missed the appointment with his friend; he expected that friend, who was an agent, was to have given him $200 or $400, and that he had no money whatever in hand; he said his friend had waited over fifteen minutes for him; I told him he could not be so short of money as not to have enough to pay my board; on which he said he had been with some friends up the Hudson River, and had spent more money than he intended; that he knew very well he could draw at any time any amount of money that he chose, but that the banks were closed, and he could not draw till the next day; he asked me if I had any money; I told him I had not—at least I had some, but I did not consider it mine, as it was to pay my board; I had $10 for that purpose; he asked me to lend him some; I gave him $5, which he took; he then said he wished me to come to the Clinton-place Hotel, as he thought it better for me to take the name of Mrs. Bruce, as he being a widower, the hotel-keeper may not think it proper for him to pay board for a young lady; I told him I did not like to do so, as I thought my name was as good as any other; he replied that as I was engaged to him, he thought I ought to do what he considered proper, particularly as it was to my interest; I agreed to do so, as I could not help myself; I returned home and went to the Clinton-place Hotel; I inquired if rooms had been taken for Mrs. Bruce, which he had agreed to do; they said no person of that name had been there; the book-keeper showed me to a room; I said I would wait until Mr. Bruce should come; he had told me to call him Mr. Bruce; I waited till 7 o'clock, when I rang the bell, and asked the waiter if a gentleman had been there to order a room; I wrote the name of Bruce on a card, and he went down and made inquiries; he said there was not; I remained there that night, and the prisoner came the following morning to the Hotel and soon directed me to order breakfast; I had a fine carbuncle ring, which I always wore on the forefinger; I held it out to show it to him, and he tore it off my finger before I was aware, and put it on his little finger; just at the time the servant came in, bringing the ticket for the breakfast, and I did not think of asking it back again at the time; he took the ticket, and I asked him if he would pay for the breakfast; he said he had not drawn any money yet, and I handed him my pocket-book to take out the amount necessary; instead of handing me back the pocket-book, he put it in his pocket; he said he was in a great hurry, and must leave immediately; he stated also that his watch had stopped and he had to take it to Tiffany's; in consequence he borrowed mine, as he was very much in need of knowing the time; he left, saying he would come again in the evening; I did not see him again until Monday, the 5th September, at 11 o'clock; it was on Saturday he took the watch; he stayed only ten minutes; he asked me if I had any more money; I replied I had not; he asked me to borrow some from a friend, as he had not been able to see his agent, but he would get money the next day; he said he could borrow some himself, but he was too proud to borrow a small sum; he said he never borrowed less than $100. I said I would borrow some, and he came the next day, and said I must prepare to leave; in the evening he came again quite late, and asked me if I had all my trunks ready, as he had to leave immediately; he said he would get a cart for my things; he went down stairs and told me to follow; at the door he told me to see if I could find a carman, while he went to pay the bill; there was a carman outside and he called him to take all my trunks to the Jersey City ferry; the carman took the trunks; the prisoner put me into a stage to go to Jersey City Ferry, and wait for him; I went to the Ferry and waited till 10½ P. M., and then came back to the Hotel, thinking perhaps I had made a mistake; I did not see him again; I made a complaint against him, and the Judge suggested I should write a letter to him directed to him at Station D; the object was to entrap him; I never got back the ring; there the prisoner McAlpine drew the ring from his pocket and exhibited it; he asked me in the Hotel if I had fine clothes in my trunks.

This was the whole of the direct examination. The witness was cross-examined by Mr. Jonas B. Phillips, but her previous testimony was not shaken.

Officer Freeman of the Twenty-sixth Precinct, testified to arresting McAlpine at the Post-office, Station D, Bible House. He had a red stone on his finger at the time of his arrest; he was searched and a watch and chain, and a pocket-book and some letters were found on him. The ring was not produced at the prisoner's previous examination before Judge BRADY.

For the defence, Mr. Traitel deposed that he was a jeweler, and was acquainted with the value of precious stones; the stone in the ring belonging to Miss Woodbine did not look like a genuine carbuncle, and was only worth three or four dollars; if it were a real carbuncle it would not be worth $25.

This testimony reduced the alleged offence of McAlpine from grand larceny to petit larceny. The other evidence for the defence was unimportant. Mr. J. B. Phillips summed up for the defence, and Mr. Doyle replied for the prosecution. The Court will charge the jury this morning.

The remaining indictments against the prisoner are for the larceny of the watch and the trunks. The latter contained wearing apparel valued at over one hundred dollars.

Decisions in the Supreme Court, General Term, Before Justices Roosevelt, Ingraham and Lott.

AN EXECUTORY OR TIME CONTRACT TO BUY NICARAGUA TRANSIT STOCK—DISSOLUTION OF THE COMPANY A DEFENCE.

Isaac Kiff, Jr., vs. Erastus P. Munro et al.—This was an action upon a contract for the sale of stock on time, by which the defendants had purchased from the plaintiff stock in the late Nicaragua Transit Company. After the defendants had entered into the agreement, but before the agreement had been executed by the transfer of scrip and payment of the price, it transpired that the charter of the Company had been revoked prior to the date of the contract. The purchasers thereupon declined to take the stock, and the seller brought the present action for damages.

Further facts are stated in the opinion.

BY THE COURT—ROOSEVELT, P. J.—The defendants, although partners, carried on their business in the sole name of Fleming; and the present action is brought on the following contract made by them in that manner:

100 shares 23 B. 30. NEW-YORK, March 4, 1856.

I have purchased of Isaac Kipp, Jr., one hundred (100) shares of the stock of the Nicaragua Transit Company at twenty-three (23) per cent., payable and deliverable, buyer's option, in thirty days, with interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum. A. FLEMING.

On the trial before the Referee the defendant offered to prove that the Rivas Government made a certain decree, a certified copy of which was produced duly authenticated, and that this decree was promulgated in the public square of Granada, the place where decrees are promulgated, the residence of the Government, about the 18th of February, 1856; that the Government which made the decree was the Government at the time, and had full power and right to make suce decree, and that such decree had been carried into effect.

The Referee, however, excluded the evidence, and, as we think, erroneously.

Had the decree been admitted, it would have shown, or, at least, have tended to show, that at the time of making the contract the charter of the company and all its privileges had, without the knowledge of the defendants, been "revoked and annulled," and the company itself "dissolved and abolished." It would, in other words, have shown that the thing contracted for had substantially no existence. What the defendants bought, or agreed to buy, was one hundred shares of stock in a living company, and not a proportionate undivided interest in the remaining assets of a dead company, in the hands of a receiver.

In the case of Benedict vs. Field (16 New-York Reports, 595) the Court of Appeals held that, upon an executory contract for the delivery of goods, to be paid for on arrival in the notes of a third party, if that party becomes insolvent before delivery, the seller is not bound to deliver the goods and accept the notes, although the notes at the time may not be entirely worthless. So that stating the transaction in another form, as an executory purchase of notes to be delivered, paid for in goods at a future time, the authority is precisely in point. The notes of an individual and the stock certificates of a company are equally choses in action, and so far as insolvency is concerned, stand on the same footing. The fact that the insolvency in the present case occurred before instead of after the date of the contract, can make no difference, as the defendants had no knowledge of the revocation until a subsequent period.

The report of the referee, and the judgment entered thereon, should be set aside, and a new trial had—costs to abide the event.

REPORT OF REFEREE SET ASIDE.

William Dibbles vs. Henry Maillard.—BY THE COURT.—ROOSEVELT, J.—Although the sum awarded by the referee ($250) is not excessive in itself, it is out of proportion to the damage proved. We think the referee, while justly rejecting so much of the claim as was founded on the alleged injury resulting from heat, and from the condensed steam which penetrated the roof of the shed, which the plaintiff himself had constructed against the defendant's wall, instead of building a wall of his own, has, nevertheless, unconsciously permitted the evidence on that point to aggravate the amount allowed by him for the alleged injury and annoyance; in other respects, from the "soot, smoke, steam and vapor which came from the chimney and steam escape pipe, into the yard and back windows of plaintiff's house."

We are reluctantly therefore compelled to set aside the report as against the weight of (admissible) evidence, and to order a new trial on payment of costs.

Order accordingly.

AN EXECUTORY CONTRACT OF SALE, AND THE VENDEE IN POSSESSION IS A GOOD EXECUTION OF A POWER INTEREST TO SELL.

Nicholas L. Demarest and others vs. Robert Ray, Executors, and others.—BY THE COURT—ROOSEVELT, J.—This is a case agreed upon and submitted under the Code without pleading or arguments. We have given it all the "consideration" which, without the aid of counsel, we could conveniently bestow, and have come to the conclusion that the points insisted on by the defendants are not well founded.

Mr. Richard Ray, by his will, authorized the executors, if they should consider it advisable, to sell such number of lots, not exceeding twenty, of 25 by 100 feet, as might be necessary to pay charges and assessments.

A sale may be made as well by an executory contract as by a deed of present bargain and sale. The contract in question, therefore, being authorized by the will, was to the extent of the number of square feet embraced in and subject to the contingency of its possible nonfulfillment, an execution of the power, especially if, as in this case, the vendee was let into actual possession, and subsequent purchasers were duly informed of the fact. The deed, in such case, when delivered, relates back to the contract, and has the same effect against subsequent purchasers with notice, as if it had been delivered on the day of the sale.

The defendants knew that the power of the executors had been conditionally exhausted. They took their deeds, therefore, subject to the chance of their being in part inoperative, in case the sales made to their predecessors should be consummated by a fulfillment of the conditions.

Judgment for plaintiffs, declaring their right and title to be paramount to those of the defendants, and that the deeds to the plaintiffs are "legal, valid, and binding, and have conveyed to and vested in the plaintiffs the title of the lots therein mentioned in fee."

DRY GOODS—Desirable styles of domestic and foreign fabrics, especially the former, have been in very good request during the past week. The demand has been mainly to supply the wants of Western, nearly, and, to some extent, local buyers. There has been a moderate inquiry from wholesale clothiers, who are beginning to prepare their stocks for the Spring trade. The leading jobbers continue to enjoy the best run of custom. Their supplies have been thus materially reduced,—yet they are replenishing them only as they are obliged to do so, and not beyond the limits of their absolute requirements. The rivalry among themselves to secure buyers has had the effect of considerably curtailing their profits. Hence, they are anxious to purchase from manufacturers and importers fresh stocks at as low prices as they can induce holders to accept; and to lessen the confidence of the latter, if not to depress the market to suit their views, they buy with noticeable reserve. On the whole, however, popular fancy and favorite staple goods continue to command fair and, in not a few instances, very satisfactory prices. This feature is especially noticeable in the trade in the finer styles of domestic cottons, as, also, in such domestic woolens as have found favor with purchasers. Imported goods, too, of seasonable quality and style, have met with a fair degree of success, though the crowding of stocks, especially of French Goods, into the auction rooms, has not had a very favorable tendency.

1. Because it is a new and fresh work, every one of the words and subjects contained in it, having been independently and carefully reëxamined.
2. Because it is the most complete and elaborate Dictionary of the English language ever published.
3. Because it contains nearly twenty thousand words and meanings not to be found in any other single Dictionary.
4. Because it gives the correct mode of spelling and of pronouncing words, and presents in cases of dispute or of doubt, the different methods and opinions of all those who have given special attention to these subjects.
5. Because in the Origin and Derivation of Words, it is more accurate than any other English Dictionary, presenting, in cases of uncertainty, the opinions of all eminent philologists and scholars.
6. Because the grammatical forms and inflections of words are given more fully than in any other English Dictionary.
7. Because its definitions are complete, accurate and concise, and amply supported by citations from the best authors, both ancient and modern; not only amply illustrating the significations, but also constituting a rich collection of the maxims and gems of the language.
8. Because it contains more than eleven hundred separate articles on Synonymes, in which the distinctions between more than 5,000 synonymous words are accurately and concisely stated, and illustrated by short and well-chosen examples.

10. Because, in Natural History, Science and Art, it not only includes accurate descriptions and definitions of objects, words and terms before known or used, but also of those recently discovered, invented or introduced.
11. Because, in words of old English, in local and provincial words and expressions, both English and American, in phrases, in modern words and significations, in technical and commercial words and terms, it is far more complete than any similar work.
12. Because there are numerous notes scattered throughout the volume, containing rare, valuable and interesting information on various important subjects; as well as critical remarks on the orthography, the pronunciation, the etymology, the grammatical form and construction, and on the peculiar technical, local, provincial and American uses of words.
13. Because it contains copious pronouncing vocabularies of Geographical and Proper Names, a full collection of Phrases and Quotations from Foreign Languages, a Key to the Pronunciation of Classical and Scriptural Proper Names, and a complete list of Abbreviations used in writing and printing.
14. Because it contains elaborate, intelligible and practical treatises on the Origin, Formation and Etymology of the English Language, on Orthography, Pronunciation, English Grammar and other important subjects.

HOTELS.

FIFTH-AVENUE HOTEL,
ON 5TH AV.,
AT THE INTERSECTION OF BROADWAY, OPPOSITE MADISON SQUARE, NEW-YORK.
TO BE OPENED AUG. 23, 1859.

This location is the most desirable of any in this great Metropolis, being the most healthy, delightful, and central in the City, and very near and convenient to the Hudson River and Boston Railroad depots.

The entire arrangements of the establishment are the result of mature study and experience, and render it the most comfortable and home-like hotel in the world.

All the improvements that comfort and convenience have suggested have been introduced.

Every precaution has been taken, during construction, to secure the positive safety of guests from the dangers of conflagration. Subdivision double brick walls extend from the rock foundation to the roof. All of the floors are double, and are separated by a layer of cement, making the entire structure fireproof.

Among other important improvements, in addition to the usual stairways, a vertical railway is nearly completed to convey guests from the first to upper floors, upon a plan which admits of no possibility of accident.

Lofty, spacious and continuous corridors, forming a promenade of eight hundred feet upon each of the six stories, give light and air, in the highest degree, to every apartment.

A liberal space has been appropriated to public drawing-rooms and parlors, connecting which and the dining-rooms there is a grand promenade hall. Suites of spacious parlors, chambers and dressing-rooms, with all the modern conveniences, have been especially designed for the comfort of families, traveling parties and single gentlemen.

An exchange, containing the journals of the day, and all the conveniences for commercial intercourse and business, has been added to the many other features of the Hotel, and there is a telegraph office connecting with all parts of the country.

Billiard and chess rooms of the most approved style and appointments, are provided for the use of guests and the public.

The furniture, and every article of use in the establishment has been expressly designed and manufactured for the FIFTH-AVENUE HOTEL.

All communications for apartments, or upon any business connected with the house, please direct to "FIFTH-AVENUE HOTEL," in order to insure immediate attention.

THE GENUINE AND ORIGINAL
WOVEN EXTENSION SKELETON SKIRT.
First introduced by me, is, without doubt, the very best SKIRT in the market, combining all the requisites of a first-class Skirt. The springs are woven in the tape, and have the adjustable Bustle, and the very best tempered Steel Springs. My name and trade mark, the WOVEN SKIRT, patent applied for, is on each, which dealers would do well to look for, as the market is full of inferior goods, made by pasting the springs in a tape made with large openings. I would solicit an examination and comparison of quality and prices.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Additional intelligence from the disputed territory of San Juan Island reaches us, via San Francisco, by the Overland Mail. The report of the landing of another detachment of United States troops on the island is confirmed. A company of sappers and miners was expected to arrive by the next vessel from Vancouver, and it was understood that they would be set at work to erect fortifications. The Legislature of British Columbia had become greatly excited at the condition of affairs. An address to Gov. Douglas had been adopted, which called for active measures to expel the American forces; the Governor had been requested to embody a militia force; and a memorial to the Queen was in circulation for signatures in Victoria, declaring the island to be British territory, and calling upon the Home Government to sustain its rights. In the meantime our special Washington correspondent states that the British Government has ordered a distinguished military commander to the island, with instructions similar to those issued by our Government to General Scott.

There is some prospect that the negotiations relative to the proposed Treaty with the Juarez Government in Mexico will be transferred to Washington. Both Señor Mata and Señor Lerdo are understood to be in favor of such transfer, and to have urged it upon Juarez in their dispatches. The private Secretary of Señor Lerdo left this city on Tuesday last for Vera Cruz, by way of New-Orleans, as bearer of dispatches. There is little doubt that this Treaty will be the subject of discussion in Washington, even if the transfer should not be made permanently, with the hope that some plan may be devised which will satisfy both Governments. Great confidence is yet felt that a favorable conclusion will finally be reached.

For the week ending on the 19th inst., the receipts into the Sub-Treasury amounted to $834,831 [illegible]. The drafts issued amounted to $1,158,119 81—a reduction of $323,287 42 as compared with the week previous. The amount remaining subject to draft was $4,404,831 22.

The most conclusive testimony to the existence of gold in the Pike's Peak region of Kansas has just arrived at Leavenworth from Denver City, in the shape of $32,000 in gold dust. This is the largest amount yet received at one time. The proposition for a State organization had been defeated, returns from eleven of the mining districts giving a majority of 1,600 against it. This result may be attributed to the opposition of the mining population to the lands of the region being brought into market for sale—a measure that would be the immediate result of the proposed organization. In consequence of the numerous depredations of thieves, a Vigilance Committee had been organized, which had already banished several persons.

Reports of the disastrous effects of the wind and rain storms which have swept the country recently, reach us almost hourly. The heavy rains in Pennsylvania, in the Delaware and Lehigh valleys, as already noticed, have caused many serious freshets in the rivers. The Lehigh River at Mauch Chunk was yesterday fully eight feet above its ordinary level, and the streets of the place were overflowed to such an extent that its citizens were forced to resort to boats, in which they were doing their best to preserve their property from destruction. A serious break is also reported in the Delaware Canal at Yardleyville, about forty feet of the embankment having been washed away. All the canals are overflowed to such an extent that the boats are unable to make their customary trips. From the Jersey coast, we learn that the brig Mason B. Davis and the schooner Harrison Jones, both bound for this port, are ashore above Squan Inlet. Their crews are safe. Accounts also reach us from the Southern States of damage done by the late equinoxial gale. In portions of South Carolina, it amounted to a tornado, which destroyed property to an immense amount.

Another correspondence has taken place between the Mayor of Baltimore and the Independent Committee of Citizens, relative to the disturbances in that city. The Committee inquired of the Mayor if he intended to continue all his recent appointments of Judges of the election, and the Mayor refers the Committee to his recent address, and says if the Committee can prove that any of the Judges acted dishonestly, he will remove them.

[illegible] W. Thornton is on trial at St. Louis for the murder of Mr. Joseph Charless, a prominent citizen, whom Thornton killed in the street in June last. The defence of insanity is set up.

At the General Term of the Supreme Court yesterday, another action involving questions of fraud and corruption at the City Hall, and of burdens and taxes to the citizens, came on for argument. It was an action brought by a property-owner on Fifty-eighth-street to enjoin Terence Farley, a contractor, from proceeding in grading that street under a contract which the plaintiff alleged was obtained by him through the collusion of late Street-Commissioner Taylor. The plaintiff alleges that the proposals were deceptively contrived to delude bidders, and that Mr. Farley was in fact the highest bidder instead of the lowest. In the case of Mowes against Bogardus, the Hudson City mob case, the counsel on each side summed up, and the Jury will reassemble on Monday to render a verdict. In the Court of General Sessions, John McAlpine was placed on trial, charged with robbing a young lady, a governess, of a carbuncle ring. The evidence of the complainant is painfully interesting. McAlpine, who has a dozen aliases, has been several times in the Tombs, and has served two years in the State Prison.

The Police Commissioners, yesterday, reinstated six of the old municipal policemen, dismissed two officers from the Department, and accepted the resignations of two others. The Board will meet next Monday for the trial of Dr. A. B. Jones, Police Surgeon, charged with receiving a bribe. The General Superintendent has issued a circular, a copy of which is to be placed in the hands of every officer, prescribing certain rules of discipline and deportment to be observed by them. The men are to learn them by heart.

The second anniversary of the Fulton-street Prayer Meeting was held at the North Dutch Church, yesterday, and the attendance was very large. The Rev. Dr. Leland presided. Addresses were made by the members of the Irish Delegation, in which they told of the gratifying progress of the revival in Ireland, and asked Christian Americans to aid in its further advancement. The Business Men's Daily Union Prayer Meeting Convocation, having for its object the revival of the prayer meetings of last year, held its first session last evening in the Cooper Institute, and will continue through Saturday, Sunday and Monday. The exercises were interesting.

The Regatta of yesterday was again a failure on account of there being no wind, or not enough to make the sail inside of the time appointed. The steamer having the members of the Club on board, proceeded to the light-ship, but returned towards evening and took two of the yachts in tow and brought them to the city. Others when last seen last night, were near the point of Sandy Hook becalmed. Some were endeavoring to return, none however, had proceeded to the light-ship. The race will be attempted a third time to-day, at the same hour.

Another meeting was held last evening of the subscribers to the stock for an opera house in Brooklyn. The Building Committee ask for $175,000, and of this amount, including the subscriptions received last evening, all has been raised but about $10,000. The prevailing opinion being that this balance would be taken at the outside within one week, the meeting adjourned with the intention of not calling another public meeting. The land for the opera house has already been purchased and paid for, and the work upon it will probably be commenced within two weeks—the plans and everything necessary being ready.

The Stock Market yesterday was again firm for New-York Central shares, which attract most speculative attention at present. The Western Road Stocks were easier in the afternoon. On the other hand, there was a renewed movement for the rise in the shares of the Pacific Mail Company, on a rumor that the California mails are likely to be continued on the steamers of the Company after 1st October. There was a large export demand for Gold and Silver for the two European steamers sailing this day, and $2,500,000 is stated as the total engagements. Money continues in easy supply. Exchange closed 110¼ on London; 5.14⅜ on Paris.

A fair business was transacted in Flour, at, however, irregular prices. Wheat and Corn were scarce, and in demand at advanced rates. Oats also improved. Pork was brisker and firmer. Cut Meats, Lard, Beef, Coffee, Cotton, Hops, Hides, Metals and Tallow, were quiet. A brisk inquiry prevailed for Sugars, the sales of which comprised over 3,000 hhds., 1,670 boxes, and 6,500 bags. Fish, Leather, Naval Stores, Oils and Whisky, were in fair request. Rice was more sought after. Samples of the new crop had been received from Charleston,—a day earlier than the first receipt of new last year. Other branches of trade were inactive.

City Reform in Baltimore.

We have watched the reform movement in Baltimore with special interest, because we hope the time is not very distant when something of the kind may be attempted in New-York. The fact that the respectable citizens of Baltimore have had the energy and independence to attempt such a movement at all, shows that as yet they are decidedly in advance of our people. Political partisanship still reigns supreme in New-York, and to its interest and its avarice the great body of our citizens freely sacrifice every consideration of the public good. Whether this will always be the case it is impossible to predict; but every one who hopes anything for our City hereafter, must have some degree of confidence that a time will come when party leaders shall be set aside, and City interests receive some share of attention on their own account. In view of such a contingency, however remote, it may be well to follow the movement already inaugurated in Baltimore.

That movement began, as our readers know, in a mass meeting of citizens, who resolved to take the City election out of the hands of political parties,—to appoint a Committee who should nominate City officers, regardless of their party relations and with sole reference to their character and fitness, and then to vote for and elect that ticket. They resolved at the same time to call on the Mayor of the City to aid their efforts, by providing for the protection of the ballot-box and the public peace. They also tendered him their "coöperation and assistance in selecting the Judges of election and the special Police for each Ward." An address was presented to the Mayor, embodying their views; and we have already made some allusions to his reply. While he declares his willingness to receive any suggestions they have to make, he declines to divide the powers and responsibilities of his office with any portion of his fellow-citizens.

So far the Mayor's action was well enough. But he, at the same time, issued an address to the people of Baltimore, for which it is less easy to see the occasion. It is a prolonged and elaborate protest against the meeting,—partly on the ground that it was wholly unnecessary, and partly because it was calculated to injure the commercial interests of the city by proclaiming its defects and disgraces to the world. He denies the existence of the evils alleged as the occasion of the movement. This is a question of fact which we cannot undertake, at this distance, either to argue or decide. But we cannot believe that so formidable a movement as the Mayor admits this to be, has been started without reason, or in the utter absence of provocation. Unless an immense number of the most intelligent and respectable citizens of Baltimore are the victims of an imaginary fear, there are evils in the municipal government of Baltimore, which demand redress. The Mayor denounces the Press and this town meeting with great vehemence for having exposed these evils, and thus diverted confidence and trade from Baltimore. With reference to the Press, he says:

> "I do not hesitate to say that the Press has done more injury to this city than ten times the catalogue of rowdyism which it has professed to detail. It has excited your people to riot and bloodshed at home, and has brought discredit upon your good name abroad. It has been the prolific source of many of the evils of which you complain—and if your trade has suffered, it has been through this agency, which, in its efforts to secure patronage or gain party ascendancy, has trifled with the best interests of your people. If you go to other communities, similarly situated with your own—with the same mixed population—you will find that rowdyism is not more remarkable in this city than in some of these. But their business men do not permit their evils to be made the constant theme of editorial comment and exaggeration. There is not a town or village in the whole country where the good name of your city is not now assailed, and the most fearful pictures presented of your 'deplorable' condition."

This is certainly an extraordinary paragraph for an intelligent man to write. We should like to know from Mayor Swann if the "business men" of New York "do not permit the evils of their City government to be made the theme of editorial comment." Our "business men" have never thought it essential to their interests to cover up and extenuate the evils of the City government. They have believed it better to reform than to hide them,—and they know perfectly well that without the exposures and denunciations of the Press, no movement towards reform is possible. If the Press in Baltimore or New-York, has "excited the people to riot and bloodshed," the guilty parties should be branded and crushed therefor by the indignation and disfavor of the public. But to blame the Press for disclosing abuses and denouncing malpractices in the Government, and charge upon it the discredit and disgrace of the abuses thus revealed is the height of absurdity. The Mayor thus speaks of the agencies by which bad officers are forced upon the community, and of the only remedy of which the case admits:

> "It seems to me, fellow-citizens, that a great deal of what we complain of in the conduct of elections is due to the apathy and indifference of our citizens. When has it been customary for property-holders and men of business to attend the primary meetings, where bad nominations originate? Never, within my recollection. * * *
> The proceedings of the primary meetings in some of the Wards I have no wish to defend. I should be very sorry to believe that any respectable number of those who placed me here are in any way responsible for nominations unfairly made. They can have no sympathy from me and my fellow-citizens may rest assured that the countenance of this office will never be extended to any who may desire to uphold them. Such nominations procured by unfair means cannot and ought not to be sustained. I am prepared now, and at all times, to unite with conservative men to denounce violence, or any attempt to stifle the voice of a single qualified voter.
> It is the privilege of every man to participate in the selection of those who are nominated to rule over him, or to control the affairs of the Government under which he lives. For twenty years past we have heard complaints of the manner in which these primary meetings have been conducted. The evil is not confined to any one party. The remedy, and the only one that I can see, is with the conservative classes who refuse to participate in them, and leave the results to be controlled by incompetent and designing men."

The Mayor admits that bad nominations are made by all the political parties;—and also that they ought not to be sustained. It strikes us that he must, therefore, admit the perfect right and duty of all good citizens to meet together, and to resolve that they will not sustain them; and this is precisely what the Town Meeting in Baltimore has done. The Mayor's tone rather implies that political partisans have a monopoly of nominating candidates, and that unless respectable men choose to attend their primary meetings, they have no right to complain of the results. Why have not business men a right to hold primary meetings—one or more—of their own? Why is it not quite as lawful for them to assemble and nominate candidates, as for political parties? May not the people get together and provide for electing officers of the Government, unless they come as Republicans, or as Democrats, or as Native Americans? The Town Meeting in Baltimore was simply a "primary meeting" of the people at large. They did not meet as politicians, it is true,—nor under the sanction of either of the political parties of the country: they met simply as citizens of Baltimore. But we do not see why their right thus to meet was not quite as perfect as if they had worn some party badge and aimed solely at the advancement of party interests. We are quite sure they were consulting the real welfare of the city much more truly than they could have done under some party name.

Something of Mayor Swann's dislike of the movement is unquestionably due to the reflection which it is supposed to cast upon his administration. This feeling is perfectly natural, and for aught we know, perfectly just; but he should not allow it to carry him too far. Least of all should he suffer it to betray him into the denial of rights which belong to every citizen, and which it is the duty of every citizen to exercise, whenever the welfare of the community may require.

Speaking of Councilmen.

By a curious coincidence, our City reporter yesterday morning passed from a series of observations on the ordinances prohibiting the keeping of swine, to the account of a riot in a drinking saloon of the Third Ward, with the remark, "speaking of Councilmen." The accidental phrase can hardly be considered a catachresis, for the riot in question grew up about, centered in, and was commended by a member of the City Council, one Anthony J. McCarty, who behaved in the aforesaid drinking saloon as if all the demons which drove the too-famous scriptural herd headlong down a steep place into the sea, had entered into his one paternal body. This exemplary Father of the City, assisted by five worthy confederates, fell upon a certain Mr. O'Brien, in the saloon No. 191 West-street, pugnis et calcibus, with fists and feet, beat him with clubs, smashed him with glass decanters, crushed him with chairs, and eventually left there a mangled mass of half-inanimate and wholly insensible clay on the floor. And all this was done by this estimable personage,—to whom the tax-payers of New-York have committed a certain proportional responsibility for the care of their property, their lives, their homes, and the honor of their City at home and abroad,—simply in pursuance of a slight political discussion between Mr. O'Brien and himself.

Now we do not note the case through any particular compassion for Mr. O'Brien, though we seriously lament his misfortunes; nor through any special horror of Mr. McCarty, though we should find it hard to overstate the case as against him. But we do call public attention to it as another and a most eloquent illustration of the Municipal system under which we live, and which is fast carrying us backwards into practical barbarism. The continuance and the character of this system are due not to the McCartys or the O'Briens, but to the citizens of New-York who look calmly on upon the desecration of all the ideas of liberty and law among us; who suffer the most irresponsible of mankind to usurp the offices of the City, and who appear to be equally insensible to the fast-growing burdens of taxation and to the full-grown weight of shame under which our Metropolis labors. The City may repudiate these riotous Fathers if it will, but it is the City which elected them to be its Councilors, and it is upon the City and not upon them that the enduring scandal of their deeds must rest.

Senator Douglas and the Supreme Court.—In his Wooster speech Senator Douglas discusses, though briefly, the bearing of the Dred-Scott decision of the Supreme Court upon his theory of Popular Sovereignty. It has been claimed by Southern men that the Court had decided slaves to be property under the Constitution, and that the protection of the Constitution, either through Congress or the Courts, must of necessity accompany it into any Territory of the United States. They have charged Mr. Douglas, therefore, with assailing that decision. The Republicans have alleged substantially the same thing as to the scope of the decision itself, and have met the Senator's plea for the sovereignty of the Territorial Legislature, by saying that he acknowledged the binding character of the decision which completely nullifies the practical effect of his principle.

Mr. Douglas answers both parties by denying the construction given to the decision of the Supreme Court. He asserts that the decision goes directly to the point that federal protection is to be given to slave property only in the event of its being fugitive. If a slave escapes, then it is the duty of Congress to make laws for the protection of his master's property in him. In every other case, so far as protection is concerned, it stands on the same footing as other property. All property relies for its security upon the local law of the State or Territory within which it is held. Congress has nothing whatever to do with the enactment of laws for its protection.

In this connection Judge Douglas refers to the article in the Constitution, written by Judge Black, reviewing his pamphlet on the subject. His reply is personal, incomplete and undignified. He descends to the vulgarity of nicknaming the Attorney-General, and charges him half-a-dozen times in the course of his remarks with wilful "falsehood." He denies that he has assailed the Supreme Court, and also denies holding the theory that a Territory is a sovereign power;—and applies the epithets in question to Judge B. for having asserted the contrary. Mr. Douglas may possibly have made a more marked impression for the moment upon the crowd he was addressing, by the use of epithets and vituperation; but he gains nothing thereby either in reputation or in argument with the people at large. However mistaken in its assumptions, or in its argument, Judge Black's review may have been, it was at least courteous in tone and respectful in its language; and Judge Douglas would have consulted his true interest by responding to it in a similar style.

The Progress of Humbug.

The Tribune has been badly sold. It regards seriously the persiflage of the Herald about the enormous and preternatural things it is going to do this Winter. It believes, or at least pretends to believe, its announcements about reporting the proceedings of Congress verbatim by telegraph, and the kindred stuff with which it has been trying to bolster up the dying hopes of its subscribers for the past three months. The Tribune ought to be sharper than to be taken in by so old a trick. It ought to have learned from past experience that the Herald always brags loudest when it does least, and that one of its systematic tricks is to divert public attention from its failures, by boasting of what it has done in times past and what it means to do in the future. When the Italian War broke out, the Herald devoted column after column to proclamations of the astounding arrangements it had made for correspondence from the seat of war; but when the battles came to be fought it had not a solitary correspondent within 500 miles of the spot, and fell back upon the valuable services of their regular correspondent, Jefferson Brick, Esq., snugly seated in one of the back rooms of the Herald office. In the same way it has been making a dreadful hullabaloo about the Great Eastern—reprinting everything it could find in old gazetteers on the general subject of steam navigation, and filling its columns with the contents of a six-penny guide-book to the Leviathan published in London two years ago. Yet, when the time comes and the preliminary trial trip is made, not a solitary Herald correspondent turns up,—and the Times, as usual, has the only full, accurate and intelligent original report of the whole affair.

The Congressional reporting operation is a piece of the same sort of enterprise. The Herald Editor is a dilapidated old Zouave in journalism, and, like the battered and decrepid Turcos and Zouaves of the French army, delights himself and the credulous crowd by rigmarole stories of the prodigious exploits of his better days, and the fearful slaughter he intends again to deal out upon everybody who ventures to cross his path. He has the most implicit faith in the credulity and stupidity of the public; and he retains a good deal of his old skill in playing upon both. But times have changed since the early days of his first campaigning. It is only a small portion of the public now who are either alarmed or amused by the terrific beating of his big drum, with which he astounds the world seven days in every week. The reading public now-a-days think a good deal more of performances than of promises—especially of promises which, as experience shows, are never intended to be fulfilled. The Herald man used to be the "Napoleon" of the Press, when he had nobody to fight; but he is now simply a broken-down old Turco, in whom the desire has long survived the ability, either to excel his rivals or fasten public attention upon his past exploits.

The Associated Press intends to make its reports of the debates in Congress much more full, accurate, and interesting than they have been heretofore; and as one of its members, the Herald will share the advantages of this improvement. With its usual modesty, however, it is making a desperate attempt to appropriate the entire éclat of an enterprise which belongs to its associates in common with itself. The best proof of the dilapidation into which it has fallen, is found in the fact that not one of its fellow-members has thought it worth while to complain of its proceedings. If it can derive any advantage from them, it is quite welcome to it.

Robbing Families for the Good of the Party.—We publish a communication in another column from the wife of a laborer employed by the Government of the United States in its service. She complains,—not of the work he has to do, nor of the small wages he receives, nor of the short and uncertain tenure of his post; but of the fact that a political party, which claims to control the Government, walks into his house, and under threat of dismissal and starvation, robs him of a certain percentage of the pittance he has so hardly earned. She thinks this unjust. She knows it makes it very hard for the family, and she fancies it galling to her husband's pride and sense of independence.

There is no doubt she is perfectly right; but there is not the slightest chance that the habit, outrageous and disgraceful as it is, will ever be abandoned. It has come to be a recognized principle of the Government that the wages of the persons in its employ are an open fund which the party that sustains it is perfectly at liberty to invade and plunder with complete impunity. This is the legitimate result of the despotism of party which usurped the Government, and rules the country under Republican forms. The offices, the patronage, the power, the Treasury of the country, belong in fee to the dominant party. The Government is concerned with them only as the agent and for the benefit of the party which placed it in power.

Our correspondent, in her ingenuous simplicity, begs the publication of her note, as it may "soften the consciences of those in authority to the demands of justice." She is over sanguine. There's not one chance in ten thousand of such a result. The first necessity of those in authority is to keep in authority;—and the only way to accomplish that is by propitiating the party to which they owe their places. Conscience is a luxury they cannot afford.

A Cry of the Taxpayers for Justice.

It is barely possible that the name of Terence Farley may not impress general readers as one of those "few, immortal names that are not born to die." Not in standard literature, nor yet in the current issues of the publishing world, does the representative of the Farleian family honors secure a place; but journalism is not unfamiliar with his deeds, and on contract, surety, warrant, and draft, on writs, subpœnas, complaints and pleadings, on paper and parchment, no name so frequents the chambers of the City Hall as that of this notable maker and mender of City streets. We have heretofore had occasion to celebrate some of the minor transactions with the Street Commissioner and the Corporation Counsel which have distinguished the career of Mr. Farley—a little charge, for instance, of $1,700, most unaccidentally by the City treasury, for inspecting work never dreamed of at the time the service was alleged to have been performed, and other trifling matters of a similar sort. But yesterday our municipal hero reappeared in a new character. Associated with that august abstraction, the Corporation of New-York, he seeks from the Supreme Court, at General Term, a revision of such justice as the Special Term had awarded him in a suit brought by one Stephen Appleby. The case is not entirely unknown to the reader. Four years ago Farley obtained a very ambiguous contract for grading a block of Fifty-eighth-street, from the late Commissioner Taylor. Substantially, his was the highest bid put in for the job; formally, it was the lowest; and Mr. Appleby, the complainant, in his eminent prerogative of a tax-payer, declares that the entire affair was arranged in order to place money in the pocket of Terence, and to defraud the army of martyrs to which he belongs. The complainant also insists that the proposals and estimates were illegal in their indefiniteness; that it was unauthorised by the Common Council; and that the sureties were not properly guaranteed. Terence of course controverts all these positions; and adds the standing generality that tax-payers have no right to pursue and prosecute malappropriations of the taxes. It was Judge Davies who, at Special Term, decided these issues against the individual defendant, and stopped the work by a perpetual injunction. To set it going again, and especially to open that little private duct through which, as a part of the enterprise, public money has flowed so currently into the contractor's pocket, is the object of the present appeal, which the Justices having heard, have only to decide.

Without seeking to influence, however slightly, the unerring decisions of the law, let us be indulged the hope that the good fortune of Farley may not in this instance fail him. The value of such men in elucidating the radical evils of our Municipal system is not to be under-estimated. They are to the City Government what misery is to charity, or vice to didactic and reformatory virtue—the necessary opportunities for the exercise of that better political action which a wary people must presently institute. Terence is only one necessary evil, out of a multitude incident to a vicious system. Not until the vice is eradicated utterly need we fret ourselves because of the private ungodliness of such as he. Let paltry Municipal sinners have their day, and the day of reformatory energy will come all the sooner.

Academy of Music.

A good performance of the "Traviata" took place here last night, and attracted a fine audience. The caste included the names of Madame Cortesi, Signor Stefani and Signor Amodio. Of the lady's performance we have spoken on other occasions. Her conception of the rôle of Violetta is somewhat pronounced, and suggestive of a phase of life more lost than what we are apt to ascribe to the heroine, but it is sustained with great force, both morally and dramatically. In one essential we noticed a falling off from the taste of last season, namely, in the costuming of the part. We may add, too, that the nobility of Spain seems to have undergone some hardships during the past Winter—no longer presenting that gay and festive appearance which characterized it at the commencement of last year's season, but seeming, rather, by the poverty of its garments, to crave a merciful indulgence at the hands of a kindly acquaintance.

To-day there will be an extraordinary Matinée, at which the entire of "Lucia di Lammermoor," (Signor Gassier will make his entré as Ashton,) will be performed; also, an act from the "Trovatore;" another from the "Barber," and a third from the "Puritans." Between these pieces, Arthur Napoleon will perform some of his fantasias on the piano-forte.

CASE OF BISHOP ONDERDONK.

Inquiry into the Origin of the Present Movement for Restoration—Remonstrance of the Executive Committee of the Diocese Ten Years ago.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

"Fiat Justitia" asks for the publication of the Memorial of Dr. Onderdonk, praying for the removal of his sentence of suspension, and of the paper said to be in the hands of the Rev. Dr. Hawks, in which the suspended Bishop pledges himself, in the event of the removal of the sentence, to assign all his Episcopal rights and prerogatives to Bishop Potter. There is certainly great propriety and justice in this suggestion. A vague rumor gets afloat that a few gentlemen are secretly engaged in a measure which is calculated to affect most seriously the interests of the Church in this Diocese. The Diocese and the Church at large are kept in profound ignorance of the nature of the movement and of the parties engaged in it. After a while, certain statements of facts in regard to it, and the names of certain parties connected with it, find their way to the public press. "One of the Signers" states that Bishop Onderdonk confesses his guilt, justifies the court which condemned him, professes penitence, and promises virtually to resign his jurisdiction, if his suspension is removed. He signs his petition with this understanding of the case. The next day, "Another Signer" states that he never heard of the pledge of virtual resignation, and finds no confession of guilt in Dr. Onderdonk's memorial. His signature must have been affixed from motives and with an end in view different from those of the first signer. On the same day, a signer publicly withdraws his name from the paper. And still another talks of a three-fold division of the Diocese, sending Bishop Potter to the north part of the State, making a Diocese out of Long Island and Staten Island, and leaving the rest to Bishop Onderdonk.

What can all this mean? Are certain facts suppressed to induce one party to sign the memorial, which are disclosed to operate to the same end on the mind of another? Is the memorial itself so artfully and ingeniously worded that it may bear various constructions, purporting to be a confession of the crime of which he was convicted, when in fact it is only a general confession of sin? Did Bishop Onderdonk originate this movement? or was it first suggested to him by another?

Is the memorial itself the free, spontaneous offspring of Dr. Onderdonk's mind and heart, or were its outlines suggested to him as the terms on which certain parties might be induced to sign it? Is the paper in the hands of Dr. Hawks a condition submitted to Bishop Onderdonk, or a purpose originating with himself, and voluntarily expressed? The whole Church in this Diocese is entitled to know the full history of this movement. It would appear from the little that has been vouchsafed to the public in regard to it, that there has been misconception in the mind, and haste in the action even of those who have been permitted to take part in it, while those outside of the selected few are left to rumor and remote inferences. This is not the first move that has been made for the same end. In 1849, the Convention of the Diocese adopted a certain preamble and resolution, which, in the judgment of many, virtually asked for the removal of Bishop Onderdonk's sentence of suspension, although it ostensibly prayed only for relief to the Diocese, which at that time had not been authorized by the General Convention to elect a Provisional Bishop. In view of this circumstance, a meeting of the Laity and Clergy of the Protestant Episcopal Church was called in this City, and a memorial to the House prepared and signed by an Executive Committee of thirteen gentlemen, protesting against the removal of the sentence. The memorial was drawn by the Rev. Dr. Hawks. If it had any force, at a time when the Diocese had no Bishop, and no canonical mode of securing one but by the restoration of Bishop Onderdonk, its arguments are equally as forcible now, when there seems to be no sufficient evidence of his full confession of the offences of which he was convicted; when we are satisfactorily provided for in the way of Episcopal supervision, and when it would seem impossible to conjecture a motive for again stirring up the waters of strife and contention. If Bishop Onderdonk would unreservedly confess his guilt, completely justify the sentence which condemned him, and resign absolutely his jurisdiction, there could be no serious obstacle to the exercise of mercy in the removal of his suspension; but until this is done the arguments of the memorialists in 1849 remain in full force. The following is the conclusion of the paper and the names of the Executive Committee who signed it in behalf of the meeting.

PRESBYTER.

> "Your Memorialists beg leave respectfully to remind you, Right Reverend Fathers, that this is the second time such an application has been made to you. On the former occasion it was made by Dr. Onderdonk himself, and referred to a Committee of your body, who reported that his application could not be favorably received; and expressly declaring that, in their view, he did not 'stand in the position of a penitent,' recommended that he should have liberty to withdraw his application—accompanying the recommendation with the very decided declaration, that though 'the remission of that sentence is a possible event in contemplation of law, they deem it but justice to the Memorialists, and to the Diocese of New-York, to add, that they consider the probability of its occurrence so slender and remote, as scarcely to afford a reasonable basis for future action.'
> Your Memorialists cannot withhold the expression, both of surprise and regret that, notwithstanding this language of the Bishops, the Convention of New-York should have [illegible] the application without the most distant allusion to any act or evidence of penitence on the part of the suspended Bishop since the declaration made by the Bishops. But, had penitence on the part of Dr. Onderdonk been assigned as the basis of this application, and had such assertion been undeniably true, your Memorialists still would respectfully submit, whether a restoration to the Episcopal functions would be desirable or proper. The offences of which Dr. Onderdonk was convicted are of such a nature as to preclude the idea of his restoration to the performance of Episcopal functions under any circumstances. Your Memorialists expressly charge that there has been no such act or evidence of penitence; but, on the contrary, the suspended Bishop persists in the assertion that, having committed no sin, he has nothing whereof to repent; and your Memorialists feel, that it is not their place or province to remind their Right Reverend Fathers that 'He pardoneth and absolveth all those only who truly repent, and unfeignedly believe his Holy Gospel.'
> Your Memorialists further beg leave to represent that such is the standing and character of the suspended Bishop, that he is not 'of good report' in the Diocese of New-York—there being many, both of the Clergy and Laity of the Church of said Diocese, who have no confidence in his moral purity.
> They further represent, that he could not usefully exercise Episcopal functions in New-York, inasmuch as many Clergymen would not desire his visitations in their parishes, and would not invite him to their houses, or treat him with the respect which the office of a Bishop, worthily borne, may always command; nor would many members of their congregations remain in the Church if he entered it to officiate, nor would many receive Confirmation at his hands.
> Your Memorialists beg leave further to represent, that the large vote by which that resolution was passed, is indicative rather of the earnest desire to free the Church in the Diocese from its present condition, than to intimate, on the part of the Convention, a wish that Dr. Onderdonk should again preside over it as the Bishop. Your Memorialists beg leave distinctly to say, that they mean to cast no imputation on the brethren who composed the majority. Some of them, as your Memorialists know, voted for the resolution, as offering the only possible mode whereby the Diocese could be relieved, who would never have voted directly for Dr. Onderdonk's restoration. Others voted for it, as your Memorialists also know, from the hope that in some mode a restoration would be connected with an Assistant Bishop, to whom the services could be performed. Others again there were, though, as your Memorialists believe, very few in number, who voted for the resolution in the hope that it would lead to the full reinstatement of Dr. Onderdonk in his former position. Could such of your Memorialists as were members of the Convention have seen the subject in the same light with their brethren of the first-named class, they would have voted with them, for their anxiety to see the Diocese relieved is very great; but they never could have voted with either of the others, because they could not conscientiously join in a resolution which they could construe into nothing less than an unqualified request for the pardon and restoration of one whom they believed to be guilty, who had been convicted of guilt, had refused all acknowledgment of it, had manifested no penitence for it; and whose restoration could accomplish no good, because public opinion had destroyed all power to be useful.
> In conclusion, your Memorialists respectfully beg leave to say, that they can use no language too strong to express their deep sense of the evils, great and manifold, which must result from the restoration of Dr. Onderdonk: evils to the cause of Christianity, to the progress of the Church at large, to the support of pure morals, to the character of our country, and to the advancement and stability of our communion in the Diocese of New-York.
> Your Memorialists, as became them, have spoken for themselves alone as Protestant Episcopalians of New-York. The questions now at issue, however, affect the whole Church; for the purity and character of our Episcopate are the common property of the Church. To our brethren elsewhere we leave it to perform in this case what they may deem to be their duty. We have but endeavored, in the sight of God, humbly, respectfully, and faithfully, to acquit our own consciences in the matter; and we now leave the result in the hands of Him, before whom you, our much respected and Right Reverend Fathers, and we, your spiritual children in the bonds of Christ, must alike stand one day for judgment.
> To save the Church of God and ourselves, a small portion of it, from a dreaded, and we fear ruinous calamity, we implore at your hands such interposition as you alone, of all earthly powers, can now bestow; and for your health, usefulness, and happiness your Memorialists, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

Note from the Rev. Dr. Anthon.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

New-York, Thursday, Sept. 22, 1859.

Will you permit me to state, through your columns, that, being satisfied, upon further reflection, that the peace and advancement of the Diocese require the resignation of Bishop Onderdonk's jurisdiction over it, previous to the removal of his suspension, I have withdrawn my name from the petition in circulation. Respectfully yours,

HENRY ANTHON.

Party Robbery of the Poor.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Though but one of the many drops that compose the vast ocean of subscribers to the New-York Times, yet I hope the editor will pardon the intrusion of a personal statement of domestic grievances, growing out of political despotism. It is your honest, frank and straightforward views of justice that induces me to call on you for a public exposure of official pressure.

My husband has been for many years in the Government employ, and I know is faithful to his trust, laboring "in season and out of season" at his post of duty. Although a hireling, his self-sacrifice is a pleasure, he, in his honest heart, considering the affairs of Government as sacred, and to be cared for equally with individual relations. His salary is limited—barely enough, with frugality, to support his family. Of this he does not complain; but he does feel—and all the members of his family feel—the oppressive tax imposed on him at the Spring and Fall elections.

The principle adopted is to assess all according to their salaries—which may not incommode the higher officers—and not according to their families or honest needs. Surely this is not just. Is it not humbling, nay, grinding, to the heart of the husband and father to have his labored earnings, which are needed for the food and raiment of his family, wrenched from him by the iron hand of partisan combination, to defray the expenses of a machinery reckless in expense and corruptible to human nature? His idea was that all in the employ of the Government ought willingly to aid in the support of that relation, whereby he himself is supported. But in the name of common sense let it be done spontaneously, not by coercion. There is gratitude in the human heart of many a poor office-holder, but coercion chills and petrifies it.

The lash that is held over those who do not comply with the arbitrary demand is displacement from office; and as the bread and butter of his little ones depend on his daily walk, he has to submit, and drop his independence as a man, and become a mere labor-saving machine. You will confer a favor upon the writer if, in your multitudinous articles, you can devote a few lines to this painful subject in your strong, honest way, and perhaps the result might be a softening of the consciences of those in authority to the demands of justice, which would add a few more comforts and less self-denial to the family household.

ONE OF MANY DEPENDENTS.

New-York, Friday, Sept. 23, 1859.

Political Items.

Hon. Isaac E. Morse, of Louisiana, has written a letter insisting that the position of Mr. Douglas, in regard to the non-interference of Congress with the question of Slavery in the Territories, is the only one which the Democratic Party, North or South, can consistently hold. He makes a variety of quotations from distinguished Democrats to prove this, and thus concludes:

> "If the new doctrine of protecting Slavery in the Territories be insisted upon at Charleston, it excludes every Northern man of the Democratic Party; it coincides substantially with the views of Seward, Chase, and other Black Republicans, by giving jurisdiction of the subject to Congress, in which these gentlemen hope to obtain a majority. I have dwelt, perhaps, too long on this subject already, and conclude, as I began, by entreating the people of the Southern wing of the Democracy to pause and reflect whether they will change their front on the eve of the most important political contest, and by throwing off the assistance of their Northern allies, give the victory to Black Republicanism."

The National Intelligencer, having recently lost the Government advertising, gives notice that it will continue to publish them, though gratuitously, for the information of its subscribers. This may be public spirited or it may indicate such a predominance of Government officials, contract-seekers, &c., among its subscribers as to render it the most essential information it can publish. In either case we are sorry to see it;—the Government is abundantly able to pay for its advertising, and there is no reason why it should not do so.

Portraits of Longfellow, the Hon. S. A. Douglas and Dr. Bailey.—The series of portraits of eminent Americans, statesmen, poets, philosophers, politicians, novelists and journalists, in course of publication by Mr. C. H. Brainard, of Boston, we have already had occasion to notice in terms of commendation. To that series, already numbering over sixty subjects, Mr. Brainard has recently added portraits of Henry W. Longfellow, the Hon. Stephen A. Douglas, and the late Dr. Bailey, of the Washington Era, executed in lithography, in the best style of the art, and of a size sufficiently large to furnish handsome pictures, fitted for ornamental frames. The likenesses are excellent, and in all respects the engravings are worthy of extensive patronage.

We are requested to state that the New-York Leader of to-day begins the publication of a translation of Eugene Sue's recent novel, called "The Bohemian of Paris; or, The Three Fated Women."

The Arabia, on her last trip to New-York, passed the Asia, bound in to Liverpool, at 9½ P. M. of the 10th inst.

Herring's Patent Champion Safes Again Victorious.—Read the following letter from E. W. Blatchford, Esq., proprietor of the Chicago Lead Pipe, Sheet and Bar Lead Manufactory:

CHICAGO, Sept. 22, 1859.

C. E. Herring & Co., No. 135 South Water-st., Chicago, Agents Herring's Patent Champion Safe:

GENTLEMEN: During the disastrous conflagration of last night, my Lead Pipe, Sheet and Bar Lead Manufactory, five stories in height, and 65 by 150 feet on the ground, was completely destroyed, and the walls nearly all fell. The Herring's Patent Champion Safe, size No. 8, high folding doors, which Collins & Blatchford bought of you some three years since, was in my office on the second floor of the manufactory, and fell some 20 feet into the basement, where it laid exposed to a very severe heat for ten hours. Upon recovering it from the ruins to-day, and opening it, I found all my books, papers and money contained in it in a good state of preservation—the only damage to them being the drawing of the leather binding of the books, and their being quite damp from the safe's being filled with steam from the fire-proof filling. The fire was of the most intense character, owing to the great height of the building, and the fact that each story was in flames at once. I regard it as a most satisfactory test of the perfect fire-proof security afforded by Herring's Patent Champion Safe.

Yours truly, E. W. BLATCHFORD.

STILL LATER.

FIRE AT NEWARK, N. J.

From the Newark Daily Advertiser of Friday Evening, Sept. 16, 1859.

This morning a Herring's Safe, which had been in the third story and in the ruins all night, and in the hottest part of the flames, was taken out, and on opening it, its contents (the books of Messrs. Ward & Johnson) were found to be entirely preserved.

NEWARK, Sept. 16, 1859.

MESSRS. S. C. HERRING & CO.—Gents: We take pleasure in stating that our books, papers and money were preserved uninjured in one of your Patent Champion Safes at the burning of our moulding mill on the 15th inst., after being exposed to the fire for several hours.

A Card to the Public.—Having received the most convincing proof, within the past few days, that a spurious manufacture of Piano-Fortes has been issued for sale in this City, bearing our name and trade-mark, and sold as ours, we would caution our friends and the public against purchasing any instruments bearing such mark, except from our own rooms, No. 694 Broadway. This is the third time within the past few years that the same operation has been discovered, and always by different parties and many persons have undoubtedly purchased them, supposing them to be genuine, thereby causing great injury to our reputation as manufacturers. We would also take this occasion to caution purchasers against the unjust and false reports of certain unprincipled manufacturers and dealers, in regard to the quality and durability of our instruments. Our manufactory was established in the City of Boston, by the late Jonas Chickering, in the year 1823, since which time we have made and sold in different parts of this country, South America and Europe, nearly twenty-two thousand Pianos, for the superiority of which we have been awarded, at the different Fairs in this and other countries, over all our competitors, thirty-eight Prize Medals, besides innumerable testimonials from many of the leading artists in the profession.

For many years past all genuine Pianos issued by us bear upon the name-board, just over the keys, simply the name "Chickering, Boston," in Old English letters, while upon the sounding-board is the name of the firm in full, "Chickering & Sons, Boston," in German text. Every instrument made by us is fully warranted for durability and satisfaction to the purchaser.

Should any persons, other than those we have already discovered, have such instruments, purporting to be ours, and which they have any doubt about, we would be pleased to hear from them, as we are not aware to what extent this practice may have been carried.

METHODIST BOOK CONCERN,
No. 200 Mulberry-st., New-York.

Being in Constant Receipt of Inquiries from our brethren respecting SEWING-MACHINES, with requests to recommend and purchase, we have, in conjunction with some lady friends, carefully and thoroughly examined the various machines of practical value for family sewing, and find those made by THE WHEELER & WILSON MANUFACTURING COMPANY, No. 505 Broadway, New-York, to fully combine the essentials of a good instrument, and such as we can confidently recommend.

Having seen so favorable results from their use, in our own and the households of our friends, we are desirous that their benefits should be shared by all our brethren, and hence have interested ourselves in their behalf.

With best wishes, your brethren,

From Halstead's late Treatise on Motorpathy.—"Mrs. S——, aged 28, received an injury during confinement, which produced prolapsus uteri, with much pain and irritation. From the time of receiving the injury, to that of entering the Institution, (three and a half years,) she had been almost entirely confined to her bed. She was unable to walk, and could sit up but a few minutes at a time. The irritation and pain continued, not only in the diseased organ, but extended to the back and limbs also. A portion of the spine was very tender, with great heat and pain, and sometimes a sensation of numbness extended throughout its whole length; she had frequent attacks of headache and vertigo. Any over-exertion produced loss of voice and faintness. In three weeks after commencing treatment, she went up and down stairs, and soon walked about the grounds, rolled ten pins, &c., &c. Six months' treatment restored her to health."

This Treatise can be obtained by return mail, by inclosing 25 cents to H. HALSTED, M. D., Round Hill Water-Cure, Northampton, Mass.

IN CONNECTION WITH THE CANAL SYSTEM, THE RAILWAY MANAGEMENT, AND OUR STATE INTERESTS GENERALLY.
CONVENTION AT UTICA, SEPT. 28, (WEDNESDAY.)

By order of the late Rochester State Canal Convention, an adjourned Convention will be held at the City Hall, in Utica, on Wednesday, Sept. 28, at 11 o'clock, at which the above-mentioned subjects will be considered, in reference to the several important questions now bearing on the completion and efficiency of the State Canal system, and their preservation from conversion (by sale or lease) from a public highway into a private monopoly—together with the proper means for defence against that pernicious "discriminating" Railway policy, whereby freight is now transported through this State, between Western and Eastern States, on better terms than the productions and purchases of the people of the interior of this State are allowed to pass to and from New-York City, over railroads for which the people of this State granted valuable franchises and spent millions of dollars.

THE PUBLIC CURIOSITY.

From the Baltimore American.

We have rarely known such great anxiety evinced by the public to see a forthcoming volume as has been manifested for a perusal of this.

From the Cincinnati Inquirer.

This work has become so famous in a few months, and so generally read, that it would be useless to refer to it at any length. Its subject must make it attractive to all womankind.

THE MORALITY OF THE BOOK.

From the Christian Examiner.

Its moral tone, at once warm and pure, and utterly in earnest, is the best recommendation of the counsel it conveys. No one can fail to profit by the thoughts of tenderness it contains, and the discipline of an undying affection it suggests.

From the Atlantic Monthly.

Its great lessons are on the side of humanity, and especially of justice to woman, founded on a study of her organic and spiritual limitations.

LETTER FROM PAUL MORPHY.

Messrs. Rudd & Carleton:

I have perused the sheets of Mr. Fiske's Book of the First American Chess Congress, and I regard it as the most original and entertaining contribution made for many years to the literature of Chess. The portions of the work relating to the history of the game are especially interesting and valuable. PAUL MORPHY.

THE NEW BIOGRAPHY.

I can testify to its exactness and completeness.—Bayard Taylor.

THE LIFE, TRAVELS AND BOOKS OF ALEXANDER VON HUMBOLDT.—With an introduction by BAYARD TAYLOR, and a new Steel Portrait, engraved expressly for this work, from an original Photograph of Baron Humboldt, taken in the last years of his life. One large 12mo volume, 482 pages. Price $1 25.

The publishers can confidently recommend this Biography to the reading public. It is a full and authentic relation of the life of the illustrious savant and philosopher; of his childhood at Tegel and Berlin; his student days at Gottingen; his inspectorship in the mines of Bayreuth; his eventful five years travels in North and South America; his residence and literary labors in Paris; his journey into Central Asia with Rose and Ehrenberg; his return to Berlin; his last days and death; in short,

"The story of his life from year to year."

The account of his travels is full and picturesque, and the resumé of his literary labors minute and interesting. The list of Humboldt's multifarious writings, and the chapter entitled "Books," are valuable additions to Bibliography. Altogether, it is the best biography extant of the myriad-minded Humboldt. Conscientiously accurate in its relation of facts, it has all the charm of a story.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

From the New-York Albion.

The author has done his work, not only with conscientiousness, but with ability. The book bears its own recommendation of trustworthiness, its subject insures its interest, and its style makes it pleasant and easy reading.

From the Boston Transcript.

This volume will be welcomed by thousands of American readers, as it meets a want that exists in the public, and is prepared with much tact and ability.

From the Buffalo Republic.

With an ardent admiration for the subject the author enters upon the work, as one would enter upon any labor of love. It is with a warm enthusiasm that the career of the Philosopher is sketched, and his wonderful genius and knowledge treated.

From the Boston Herald.

There have been many biographies of Baron von Humboldt, but none of that popular character that would bring the history of this great man—his varied attainments, journeyings, and successful inquiries—to the common mind. This volume fills that place.

From the Salem Register.

This book is instructive as well as interesting, and is certainly a most delightful narrative, supplying a much-needed want in biographical literature.

From the Buffalo Courier.

It condenses into the space of a duodecimo, materials which are elsewhere to be found in numerous and costly volumes.

This book will be sent by mail, postage free, to any part of the United States, on the receipt of the price, by RUDD & CARLETON, Publishers and Booksellers, No. 130 Grand-st., near Broadway, New-York.

Everybody who reads and associates with reading people must read this magazine in order to keep himself well informed on matters which will inevitably be subjects of conversation in society; and one might as well hope to maintain his character for intelligence without reading a newspaper as without reading Harper's Monthly. In our vocation we have more reading than most persons, yet we always welcome this magazine, never taking up a new number without finding something to amuse and instruct.

APPLETON'S
ILLUSTRATED RAILWAY GUIDE

OF THE
UNITED STATES AND THE CANADAS.
Representing, by
OVER SEVENTY-FIVE RAILWAY MAPS,
the
PRINCIPAL RAILWAYS OF THE COUNTRY.
The
CIRCULATION OF APPLETON'S RAILWAY GUIDE
IS LARGER THAN ALL OTHER WORKS OF THE KIND COMBINED.
And as a medium for
GENERAL ADVERTISING,
throughout the United States and the Canadas, it is unsurpassed.

There is scarcely a town, village or city in the country but that it reaches. Thousands and tens of thousand are sold upon the various

RAILWAYS OF THE UNITED STATES AND CANADAS.

It contains interesting reading matter, nearly seventy-five Maps, a Time Indicator, illustrating by twenty-five dials the difference between New-York, London (Eng.), San Francisco (Cal.) Trinity Bay, Valentia Bay, and all the principal cities in the United States. There are very few that undertake a Western or Southern trip before purchasing a copy of

to enable them to select their route previous to commencing a journey. From present indications, the time is not far distant when every intelligent traveler will consider it just as necessary to purchase a copy of the Guide previous to starting on a journey as it is to purchase their tickets previous to entering the cars. Independent of its importance as a Railway Guide, as it is unequaled. It gives an account of railways and their progress, from month to month; valuable inventions, anecdotes and incidents of travel; thereby not only being an instructive and useful work, but also an amusing traveling companion.

From the American Railway Times.

This is a most admirably arranged traveler's guide, and we cordially recommend it to the public. It is the most complete thing of the kind ever published in this or any other country.

From the Cincinnati Commercial.

Appleton's Railway Guide is, without exception, the most complete work of the kind ever published. Mr. G. F. Thomas, the original projector and compiler of the Guide, was for many years a resident of our city, and is well known to many of our citizens as peculiarly competent for a work of this kind.

From Harper's Weekly.

Appleton's Railway Guide, which makes its monthly appearance, has become as much of a necessity in America as Bradshaw is in England or on the Continent, while the style puts to shame that dingy publication.

APPLETON'S ILLUSTRATED RAILWAY GUIDE is, without any exception, the cheapest book ever published. It contains nearly 300 pages, nearly 75 maps, a variety of useful and entertaining matter, and is sold at the very low price of 32. HEALTH OF AMERICAN WOMEN. 32.

It has often been a sad reflection that the physiological anatomy of women has rendered her liable to suffering and disease, for which a reliable remedy has never been found in the regular medical profession. Every mother of a family, and most females above 15 years of age, fully experience this. Social position, wealth and cultivated taste offer no exemption to this rule. So universal are those sufferings of women from the age of 15 to 45 years, that every one is interested in obtaining certain relief.

Irregularities, local displacements, general debility and nervousness seem to be the common lot of women during the largest portion of their life.

The experience of many years, the severe tests of investigation by scientific medical men, the use of the medicine in the practice and in the families of physicians, and its general use in the families of clergymen and among the most cultivated and refined in the country, has resulted in stamping the elegant and well-tried, known preparation of the Graefenberg Company as the only reliable remedy ever known for the universal and distressing diseases of women.

It is prepared by an educated physician of great experience, and it will always be found fully equal to representations concerning it. It is known as The Graefenberg Company's MARSHALL'S UTERINE CATHOLICON.

Price, $1 50 per bottle, five bottles for $6. It can be safely sent by express. Address JOSHUA F. BRIDGE, M. D., Secretary and Consulting Physician, Graefenberg Company, No. 32 PARK-ROW, NEW-YORK.

Having examined certificates of the Graefenberg Company, I take pleasure in saying that they present evidences of genuineness, and are entitled to the confidence of the public. My personal acquaintance with some of the members of the Graefenberg Company justifies me in expressing the opinion that their medicines are worthy of confidence. FRANCIS HALL,

SERIOUS DISCUSSION
AT THE ACADEMY OF MEDICINE.

LOSS OF FAITH IN MEDICINES EMPLOYED BY THE FACULTY.

DR. RADWAY'S REMEDIES SUPERIOR TO THE MATERIA OF MEDICA.

FATAL MISTAKES AND JEALOUSIES OF MEDICAL MEN.

DR. FOSTER'S ERRORS.

On Wednesday evening, the 21st inst., the eminent and distinguished Faculty of the New-York Academy of Medicine, in solemn conclave, assembled at the New-York University, where they, as usual, launched forth a liberal volley of invectives against patent medicines, and failed in discovering a single new method or means for the relief of the afflicted, or, in the slightest manner, advanced the noble science of which they claim the apostleship.

From the published report, as it appeared in the New-York Herald, on the 22d inst., of the transactions of the learned and scientific body on the evening of the 21st, the Faculty are still groping in the dark, and continue to exhibit profound ignorance as regards the treatment and cure of the diseases which formed the subject of discussion. With all due deference to the eminent and distinguished members of the Academy, we beg to differ with the views and opinions that were expressed at their late meeting, and would again admonish the Faculty of its errors, as regards the correct method of treatment in cases of Small-Pox, Yellow Fever, Typhoid Fever, Fever and Ague, and, in fact, all malarious, contagious and infectious diseases, not only for the benefit of the Faculty, but for the safety of the public. We again assert the positive curative efficacy of RADWAY'S READY RELIEF and REGULATING PILLS in the diseases above alluded to.

The people—the masses—who are blinded by the "pomp and circumstance" of this medical priesthood, and confidently trust their lives in their hands, have a hopeless chance of life if assailed with one of the most common of infectious diseases, which at all seasons, and in all climates, is present if the doctrine of Dr. Foster, the President of this medical association, is correct.

We quote the opinion of Dr. Foster as taken from the minutes of the Secretary of the Academy, as published in the Herald of the 22d inst.:

* * * * * *

"Dr. Foster replied, and was of the opinion that it was not the assafœtida that did the cure; he believed that there was no cure no more than there is for small-pox. The disease must cure itself. The only remedy or aid the physician could give in such a case, would be, in the meanwhile, to properly sustain the system of the patient."

Dr. Foster, the author of the above false opinion, is the President of the learned body, who, by their silence, endorses his delusive views.

Away with such miserable compromises with disease. Dr. Foster and the entire medical faculty have been notified publicly through the press, that RADWAY'S READY RELIEF and REGULATING PILLS will cure patients afflicted with Small-Pox and all other infectious diseases. The Ready Relief is likewise a positive preventive against the infection of Small-Pox and other infectious poisons. These facts the Academy of Medicine has been informed of, and yet Dr. Foster, its President, has the effrontery to state, in open session, that "there is no cure for Small-Pox."

Had the learned and able President, like his brother fellow of the Academy, Dr. PURSEY, acknowledged the inefficiency of the medicines employed by the Faculty as furnished by the Materia Medica, he would then be entitled to praise for his candor, for it is indeed true that the Materia of Medica is sadly deficient in its curative capacity—it possesses but very few safe and reliable medicines—and this fact the Medical profession generally acknowledge—for the majority of physicians in this City and throughout the United States, in most of their critical cases, secretly administer RADWAY'S READY RELIEF, REGULATING PILLS and RENOVATING RESOLVENT. Hundreds of physicians have made their acknowledgment of this fact. We do not wonder at the dilemma in which the Medical Faculty is placed in thus discarding their favorite medicines, and resorting to the pure, safe, thorough and positive medication which RADWAY'S REMEDIES, in all cases, and under all circumstances, promptly afford. Dr. Pursey's rebuke to the Academy of Medicine, of their neglect of doing full justice to medicines like RADWAY'S REMEDIES, was as well-timed as it was merited by that august body. For the benefit of our readers, we here append the words of Dr. Pursey in reply to the remarks of Dr. McNulty against "introducing QUACK MEDICINES BY BUTCHERS, as the learned [illegible] member of the profession facetiously styled all preparations publicly advertised."

"Dr. BARKER, on the opposite side of the House, proposed that the resolution should be laid on the table. Several other gentlemen objected to the resolution. Among them Dr. Pursey, who said that if no action was taken by the Academy with regard to patent medicines, no improvement in medicine, good, bad or indifferent, would be presented to the Academy."

If the Academy of Medicine will follow the wise advice of Dr. Pursey, and adopt measures to secure the people—of whose lives and health its members claim to be the guardians—against fraud and imposition, by honestly examining the merits of every medicine publicly advertised, and give the result of their examination to the people, they would confer a greater blessing upon the human race than they can possibly bestow upon science by seeking to destroy the confidence of the people in truly meritorious and valuable remedies. If the members of the Academy of Medicine seek to advance the science, let the properties of every popular medicine be thoroughly investigated, and let the world know whether the medicines published "by outsiders" is worthy of the confidence so many of them are honored with, or not. We stand ready at any moment to submit our Remedies to a thorough test, before any medical body in the world.

Wherever and whenever Radway's Remedies have been pitted against disease, of whatever character, type or nature, they have always been successful. In these three Remedies, the READY RELIEF, REGULATING PILLS and RENOVATING RESOLVENT, the public have a sure guarantee against sickness. They have been tried and proved successful in every variety of disease, in every climate and country of the civilized world. Those who are sick may depend on a new lease of life. Those who suffer pain may rely upon immediate restoration to ease and comfort. The price of these remedies place them within the reach of all. They are sold by druggists and merchants in every town on this Continent, for 25 cents, 50 cents and $1 per bottle or box.

TWO VALUABLE FARMS FOR SALE.—I offer for sale, privately, two farms situated in the County of Chesterfield, State of Virginia: one called "Grassland," situated within one mile and overlooking the city of Petersburg, containing 265 acres, with all necessary buildings for the accommodation of a large family; with well-constructed out-houses for the preservation of crops and sheltering stock, &c. This farm is beautifully situated, and in a high state of improvement; all having been recently limed and well set in clover. Whether as a pleasant residence or for agricultural or gardening purposes a more desirable farm is rarely afforded in eastern Virginia. The other farm, called the "Isle of Pines," is situated fifteen miles from the city of Petersburgh, containing 600 acres, and is well adapted to the growth of Corn, Wheat and Tobacco; much of this track is in virgin growth, and heavily timbered with pine, oak, hickory, ash, &c. The farms are offered because other and pressing engagements forbid my attention to them; and will be sold on accommodating terms, both as to price and time. Address me, Winterpock Post-office, Chesterfield County, Va.

The barns, out-houses, and fences are in good repair. The land adjoins the village, and there are three two-story dwelling-houses and a store on the farm, all pleasantly situated in the village. A magnificent grove of evergreens surrounds the farm-house. The village contains a large brick flouring-mill, large tannery, two stores, &c. The barns are full of wheat, oats and hay. There are 6 cows, 3 horses, and all the farming utensils, which will be sold with the above or separately. PRIVATE CONSULTATIONS.—Dr. HUNTER has for thirty years confined his attention to diseases of a certain class, in which he has treated no less than fifty thousand cases, without an instance of failure. Book for nothing, that treats of the evil effects of early abuse and indulgence, is embellished with elaborate colored engravings, portraying every feature and phase of disease, exposes the fallacy of the ordinary modes adopted for the cure of local as well as hereditary maladies, and gives the only safe and infallible remedy for expunging every trace of the virus from the system.

INSURANCE.

THE
LIFE
INSURANCE COMPANY
OF NEW-YORK.
Office in
Continental Bank Building,
No. 7 Nassau-st.,

Is prepared to issue Policies as follows, viz.:

POLICIES IN FAVOR OF AND PAYABLE TO THE WIFE,
Free from the claims of creditors.
POLICIES PAYABLE ON ATTAINING A SPECIFIED AGE,
Or payable in case of death before attaining such age.
POLICIES GRANTED TO CREDITORS,
On the lives of their debtors.
POLICIES GRANTED FOR ANY NUMBER OF YEARS.
PREMIUMS PAYABLE IN CASH,
Quarterly, semi-annually, or annually.
DIVIDENDS DECLARED EVERY THREE YEARS.

And the surplus belonging to the policy holders returned to them in Scrip.

This Scrip bears six per cent. per annum interest, payable in cash, and is redeemed when the aggregate issue shall have amounted to $1,000,000.

At the same time, the Company is empowered by its charter to purchase the Scrip for the benefit of the policyholders before that time.

This Scrip is not affected by the forfeiture or sale of the policy, which is a great advantage over the system adopted by some Companies, of subjecting the dividend to the same terms of forfeiture and sale as the policy by indorsing it thereon. This is clearly unjust, as the dividend is a surplus fund, and is rightly the property of the insured, irrespective of the policy.

The interest on the Scrip gradually reduces the premiums.

ITS PREMIUMS
ARE BASED UPON EXPERIENCE TO THE PRESENT TIME.

No one class of insurers is required to pay the deficiencies of others.

THE DRIGGS PATENT PIANO-FORTES.

Having purchased the manufacturing interest of DRIGGS, PARMELEE & Co., in the above Piano-Fortes, together with their extensive stock of materials, we are now prepared with greatly increased facilities to supply these instruments.

They are constructed on purely scientific principles; having upper and lower sounding-boards, (with an entire iron frame for sustaining the strain of the strings) the case forms a complete vibrating shell, and approaches nearer to the violin in perfection than any other instrument of its class.

L. M. Gottschalk, M. Strakosch, Wm. A. King, Max Maretzek and others recommend them as follows: "It is the true philosophical principle for constructing Piano-Fortes, the tone in point of richness, depth and brilliancy, equals that of the best GRAND PIANO-FORTES, and exceeds them in pure musical intonation and actual tone power."

The New-York Evangelist says: "After the strings have arrived at their full tension, it will remain in tune for an almost unlimited length of time."

The public are respectfully invited to call and see them at the Wareroom of this Company, No. 2[illegible] Canal-street.

GROCERIES & PROVISIONS.

"WHAT CHEER" HOP YEAST CAKES.—GOOD LEAVEN FOR THE HOUSE.—We call attention to the "What Cheer" Cakes, advertised in our columns. We have tried them, and our house department pronounces them excellent, alike as to economy, convenience and effectiveness. They are particularly desirable at this season, when the common yeast is so troublesome. A package of these cakes is as easy to keep as a box of soap, and they do not ferment until moistened.

The Cakes are put in one dozen packages and in gross boxes. After trial of a dozen, every family will buy a gross box. 12 cents a dozen; $1 a gross, at wholesale. For sale by all the principal grocers, and at wholesale by E. W. SMITH, No. [illegible] Broadway.

CITY INTELLIGENCE.

YACHT REGATTA—A SECOND FAILURE.—There was yesterday, a second failure of the race, of the New-York Yacht Club, not, as on the previous day, because there was too much wind, but for the reason that there was none at all. The fleet, however, assembled at the appointed hour, with the exception of the Alpha, Manursing and Restless. At 10 o'clock A. M., some twenty members of the Club were at Pier No. 4, where Mr. HASWELL soon arrived with the steamer R. A. Stevens to take them and their invited guests down the Bay. "Downing" was also there in the person of his son PETER, with every substantial comfort for the voyage. Everything in fact was right except the wind, without which, of course, there could be no sail. There was just enough, however, to beget the hope that there would be more, and with that expectation the yachts were at Owl's Head ready for the start at 10½ o'clock. There was a light air from the northward, and a strong ebb-tide when the signal to start was given. From the turn of the buoy to the Southwest Spit, it was more a drifting than a sail, however; and afterwards, until sundown, it was all drift, for with the exception of an occasional cat's-paw, it continued a dead calm, the boats not even having steerage way, and drifting with the tide. The Stevens proceeded to the Light-ship to await their arrival, and some of the party spent over an hour in the company of Capt. COSGROVE, the courteous keeper of the light, when she returned, overtaking the fleet between Sandy Hook and the Swash Channel. Receiving several gentlemen on board, and taking the Mallory and Narragansett in tow, the Stevens now returned to the City, arriving a little before 9 o'clock P. M. The race will come off to-day. The Stevens will leave Pier No. 4, at 10 o'clock A. M.

CURRENTS OF THE OCEAN.—To procure reliable data respecting the direction of the different ocean currents, Messrs. E. & G. W. BLUNT have been accustomed for some time past, to provide the various ships and steamers departing from this port upon foreign voyages with small, printed blank forms, to be placed in hermetically sealed bottles and cast into the sea at different places during the voyage; the date, latitude and longitude being marked upon the paper. When one or more are used they are also numbered. The finder is also requested to fill up and return the paper to the Messrs. BLUNT by mail. On the 22d inst. the firm received one of these little slips marked No. 2, which was thrown overboard in a current bottle from the steamship Europa, Captain LEITCH, on the 23d of March, 1859, in latitude 50° 46' north, longitude 19° 51' west. It was picked up on the coast of Ireland in latitude 54° 46' north; longitude 9° 15' west, on the 1st of September, 1859, showing that it had traveled in an east-northeast direction at the rate of four and one-eighth miles per day.

CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE COLONY OF FATHER CHINIQUY.—Mr. M. J. PAILLARD, of Maiden-lane, acknowledges the receipt of $462 50 in aid of the Kankakee colony in Illinois, under the care of Father CHINIQUY. He also mentions the reception of a letter from Father CHINIQUY, dated Sept. 19, in which he acknowledges, with thanks to those who have contributed, the reception of $226 sent to him on the 13th inst. Dr. FAIRCHILD has written to say that the Board of Directors of the American and Foreign Christian Union, composed of gentlemen of various evangelical denominations, cherish a lively interest in the work of moral and religious reform in progress in that colony, and ask the Committee of which Mr. PAILLARD is treasurer to consider the expediency of holding a public meeting in this City soon, to diffuse information concerning the condition of the colony, and to do whatever may be deemed proper in order to promote its welfare.

DEATHS FROM DROWNING AND BURNS.—Yesterday the corpse of a man was found in the water at the foot of East Twenty-sixth-street. An inquest was held, but the deceased was not identified. He was 5 feet 8½ inches in height, stout, with auburn hair, top of the head bald, and was dressed like a 'longshoreman. He seemed to be about 43 years of age, and had been in the water some 18 hours.... Another unrecognized body was also found yesterday at the foot of Spring-street, North River. It was that of a well-dressed man, about 35 years of age, stout, wearing whiskers and moustache, and 5 feet 8 inches in height.... About two weeks ago, GEORGE McCARTY while intoxicated smoked his pipe in bed, and set his clothes on fire, receiving burns which yesterday terminated his existence at the City Hospital. He was about 35 years of age.

PREACHING BY THE IRISH DELEGATION.—The several members of the Delegation of the Irish Presbyterian Church have arranged their engagements for preaching in the various City Churches to-morrow. The Rev. Dr. EDGAR, the senior member, will hold forth at the Cooper Institute in the morning; at the Rev. Mr. BLAIR's in the afternoon, and at the Stanton-street Church (No. 41 Stanton-street) in the evening. The Rev. Mr. DILL will preach in the morning at the Scotch Presbyterian Church, Nos. 49 and 51 West Fourteenth-street; at the Rev. Dr. THOMPSON's in the afternoon; and at the Thirteenth-street Church (No. [illegible] West Thirteenth-street) in the evening. The Rev. Dr. WILSON will preach at the Madison-square Church (Madison-avenue, corner of East Twenty-fourth-street) in the morning; at Cooper Institute in the afternoon, and at the Rev. Dr. McLEOD's in the evening.

STEPHEN H. BRANCH IN TROUBLE AGAIN.—Mr. GEO. N. COOK appeared before Alderman BRADY, at the City Hall Police Court, yesterday afternoon, and entered a complaint against STEPHEN H. BRANCH for an alleged libel upon his mother, NANCY COOK, and his sister, Mme. BAGIOLI, published in the Daily Hand of Sept. 1, 1859. The libel is contained in an article in the first number of the aforesaid paper, entitled "Rakes and Harlots in our National Capitol." It purports to give the personal history of one SALLY HARVEY, whose real name is alleged to be NANCY COOK, and also of her daughter, Mme. BAGIOLI, the mother of Mrs. SICKLES. A warrant was issued for the arrest of Mr. BRANCH, and placed in the hands of Officer SMITH. It will be returned at 10 o'clock this morning.

THE ATTRACTIONS OF ROME.—The Rev. W. C. LANGDON delivered a highly interesting lecture in Clinton Hall last evening. His subject was "Rome; its Attractions and Interests, as seen and felt by the Tourist." Owing, doubtless, to the still threatening aspect of the weather, the attendance was not very large; nevertheless, those who were present enjoyed an excellent description of the often before described peculiar marvels of the City of Rome, without any speculations upon the tendencies or results of her Government, which might or might not have been agreeable to a miscellaneous audience.

McCARTY AND HIS FRIENDS.—Councilman McCARTY, of the Third Ward, and five of his associates, who were arrested on a charge of feloniously assaulting DANIEL O'BRIEN, a Custom House Officer, were admitted to bail, yesterday, in the sum of $1,000, for their appearance to answer the complaint at the Court of General Sessions.

POSTPONEMENT OF THE INTERNATIONAL CRICKET MATCH.—The International Cricket Match, between all England Eleven and Twenty-two of the United States, to be played at Hoboken, has been postponed until Monday, Oct. 3. There will be a match played at Philadelphia on Monday, Oct. 10.

FOURTEENTH-STREET PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—This church (the Rev. ASA D. SMITH's) has been repainted and decorated during the Summer recess, and will reopen to-morrow. It has been closed for two months.

Police Reports.

SNOOKS LIBERATES HIMSELF.—The good-looking young German, John Frederick Snooks, whose patronymic has frequently appeared in the Police Reports, while being conducted to the Court of General Sessions, yesterday morning, to be tried on a charge of forgery, slipped his hand through the wristlet which held him prisoner, and became a fugitive in the cause of liberty. The runaway started on his race in Centre-street, and took a course through Pearl to Chatham, thence to the Bowery, from which he passed into Bayard, and thence into Chrystie-street. He was followed closely in the run by his late custodian, Deputy-Sheriff Evans, who last saw Snooks' coat-tails entering the door of a tenement house in Chrystie-street, near Bayard, with the intricacies of which Snooks is said to be familiar, and the officer the contrary. Here all traces of the fellow were lost, and Evans, in a disconsolate frame of mind, went to the authorities and related the circumstance. Indictments pend against Snooks for attempting to pass counterfeit notes on the Nassau Bank, of Brooklyn, a month or two ago, at a Maiden-lane stationer's, and at other places. Some of the counterfeits were found in his possession. Not long since he was arrested on a complaint of his father-in-law, for posting grossly scurrilous and libelous hand-bills about the streets in reference to that individual. This domestic matter was settled. The Police say he has not long been released from State Prison, where he had served a term for burglary.

DRIVING HIS HORSES IN THE WRONG DIRECTION.—Mr. John M. Pinckney, of No. 246 West Thirty-second-street, employed a Canadian named James Fitzgerald, to serve him as his coachman. On Thursday evening Fitzgerald harnessed up Mr. Pinckney's two horses, attached them to the wagon, stuffed the wagon-box with spare harness, saddle, bridle and other stable equipments—the whole of which, it is said, could not be bought for $1,500—and drove off, not intending to return. Desiring to travel by daylight he [illegible] Mr. Pinckney's property to a livery-stable in [illegible]-street, representing there that he was [illegible] the country and asking to leave his team [illegible] till morning, at which time he intended to call and take them away. He kept his [illegible], but did not get the property, it having been [illegible] time previously passed over into its [illegible] custody. The surprised coachman was collared by a watching Policeman, and led to Court. He [illegible] to Justice QUACKENBUSH that he had no [illegible] right in taking the horses, and was committed in default of bail, to cogitate upon the mutability of human affairs.

CHARGED WITH PERJURY.—Jacob Elkin, who not long ago was arrested on "suspicion of grand larceny," but upon investigation was discharged, subsequently entered a complaint before the Police Commissioners against the officers Jourdan and [illegible] of the Sixth Precinct, who effected his arrest, [illegible] again taken into custody to answer the charge of perjury, for having sworn falsely in his complaint; and having been taken before Recorder BARNARD, was committed in default of $1,000 bail.

BUYING BRANDY WITH A BAD BILL.—Charles Callahan, a resident of Brooklyn, went into the liquor store of James Halloran, No. 567 Grand-street, and asked for a pint of brandy, presenting in pay a counterfeit $5 bill on the "State Bank of New-York." The barkeeper caused Callahan to be arrested and he was locked up for trial.

A FEMALE HOUSEBREAKER.—Louisa Smith, charged with burglariously entering the house of Dorothea Burns, No. 257 Houston-street, and stealing $16 worth of jewelry, was committed yesterday by Justice BRENNAN to answer.

A RETRIBUTIVE PROVIDENCE.—Philip McKeon, of the corner of Thirty-fifth-street and Third-avenue, got drunk on Thursday night and beat his wife. She called for the Police, in the hurry to escape from whom, the unmanly husband fell down stairs and fractured one of his legs in two places. He was taken to the City Hospital.

BROOKLYN INTELLIGENCE.

Brooklyn Academy of Music—Only $10,000 More Wanted.

An adjourned meeting of the subscribers to the stock for the proposed Academy of Music, was held last evening in the Polytechnic Institute. The Chairman, Mr. SLOAN, called for the report from the committee of twenty-five, appointed at the last meeting to obtain subscriptions. Mr. P[illegible] responded to this call, by stating that the weather had been so stormy during the past week, that the Committee had had but little opportunity to discharge their duties, as they would have done, doubtless, under more favorable circumstances. He reported subscriptions amounting to $2,900.

The Chairman said that this made $12,300 of the additional $30,000 called for by the Board of Directors. After some desultory conversation, all of the amount required but about $10,000 was either subscribed for, or some one pledged their name to raise the amount, so that the whole sum will doubtless be raised within a few days.

A motion made to request the Building Committee to proceed forthwith with the work, was not entertained, because the Committee had pledged the subscribers that nothing towards constructing the building should be done until the whole amount required had been raised. Several names of prominent citizens were added to the Committee of "twenty-five," and the meeting adjourned. No more public meetings are to be held. The Special Committee and the Directors will meet every evening at their rooms, No. 9 Court-street, until the balance wanted ($10,000) is subscribed. This done, the Building Committee will commence the construction of the building forthwith, within one week after the subscription list has been closed. The gentlemen present, last evening, were quite confident that the $10,000 can be raised by Tuesday next.

A DISGRACEFUL OCCURRENCE.—On Wednesday night a private ball was held in Phenix Hall, on Court-street, near Dean, and at a late hour a gang of rowdies burst into the hall and committed all sorts of outrages. Their first movement was to turn off the gas. The lights extinguished, they commenced an indiscriminate attack upon all present. The women were subjected to the most gross treatment, and several of them had nearly all their clothes torn off. The male portion of those who occupied the hall, offered no serious resistance to the invading force, but ran to the Third Precinct Station-house and called for assistance. Sergeant SMITH and Officer WILSON promptly responded to the call, but when they arrived the ruffians had taken their departure. Officer WILSON subsequently arrested a man named THOMAS CONNORS, who was identified as a party to the outrage, but upon going before Justice CORNWELL yesterday there was no one to prefer a complaint, and he was discharged.

THE PROSPECT HILL PARK.—A meeting of the South Brooklyn Association will be held in Carroll Hill Hall this evening, when the special subjects for consideration will be the proposed Prospect Hill Park, embracing about 200 acres on Prospect Hill and vicinity, and including within its limits the new reservoir, and also the proposed improvements at Hamilton-avenue Ferry.

ACCIDENT AT FULTON FERRY.—A little girl named MEHAN, when leaving one of the Fulton Ferry boats last evening, with her mother, had one foot badly crushed between the boat and bridge. The injured girl was taken to her home in Johnson-street.

At a special meeting of the Trustees of the American Bank Note Company, held Sept. 23, 1859, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, It hath pleased Almighty God to remove from this scene of labor our friend FREEMAN RAWDON, one of the original corporators of this Company, and a member of its Board of Trustees; and

Whereas, This Board, in special meeting assembled, desire to recognize the great lesson which this event brings to us, to record our esteem for the man, and to express our earnest and sincere sympathy with his bereaved family; therefore be it

Resolved, That in the death of FREEMAN RAWDON we are again called to the contemplation of our own mortality, and the admonition that no station, no eminence, no usefulness exempt the living from the certain doom which falls alike on all.

Resolved, That the personal character of FREEMAN RAWDON, no less than his distinction as an artist, his resolute decision, untiring energy, devoted friendship, united to a refined artistic taste, has materially advanced the profession to which he belonged, and endeared his memory to us, leaving behind the fragrance of consolation to those who mourn his loss.

Resolved, That this Board painfully feels the loss sustained by it, and by the corporation of which he was a distinguished member.

Resolved, That in the endeavor to express our sympathy in the sorrow of his mourning friends, we realize the importance of language, and yield to the impressive power of Silence, commending them to Him who tempers the wind to the tenderness of all his children.

Resolved, That this office be closed, and that this Board and Corporation will attend in a body the funeral of our deceased associate, wearing the usual badge of mourning.

Resolved, That these proceedings be recorded on the minutes, and a copy forwarded to the family of deceased.
W. H. WHITING, Secretary.

PARTIAL DEAFNESS AND DISCHARGES FROM THE EAR.

Dr. HARTLEY begs to announce to those of his patients with whom he has been in communication, that he has, in compliance with their special requests, made arrangements to establish his Ear Institution in New-York; and he generously offers to attend all persons suffering from affections of the Ear, without charge until cured—thereby proving his success unequaled, and protecting the deaf from being swindled by paying self-styled Aurists exorbitant fees in advance, and the infliction of still more serious evils, by permitting the application of dangerous remedies by inexperienced and unskillful hands.

Dr. H. may here state that he has no connection whatever with any person advertising to cure deafness; neither has he given permission for the publication of a certificate, purporting to emanate from him; and cannot, therefore, be responsible for any alarming consequences resulting from rashness and desperation. The loss of money may not be material to some persons, but the deprivation of one of the most important of the senses, ought to be regarded and treated with more than ordinary solicitude.

Deafness, noise in the head, and all disagreeable discharges from the Ear, speedily and permanently removed, without causing the least pain or inconvenience. A cure in all cases guaranteed where malformation does not exist.

Thirteen years' close and almost undivided attention to this branch of special practice, has enabled him to reduce his treatment to such a degree of success as to find the most confirmed and obstinate cases yield by a steady attention to the means prescribed.

The destruction, by fire, of the Philadelphia Ear Infirmary, of which Dr. HARTLEY was the head—having released him from his duties in that city, he has established permanently his Institution, for the exclusive treatment of Ear Diseases, at No. 106 Fourteenth-street, opposite the Academy of Music, New-York.

Consultation and Examination each morning.

FRIDAY, Sept. 23—P. M.

The activity in the Stock Market keeps up, and another large business was done to-day, on the Share list, though with varied fortune to the speculators,—New-York Central being firmer, and the Western Stocks easier than on Thursday. In the first-named the transactions were exceedingly spirited, and amount altogether to about 8,000 shares. The price opened at 81¾ ₩ cent., receded at one time to 81½, then recovered to 81¾ ₩ cent., and finally closed at 81¾@⅞ ₩ cent. Galena shares were heavily dealt in, opening at 75⅛, and finally closing 74⅝ ₩ cent. In sympathy with this decline, Chicago and Rock Island was lower by ½ ₩ cent., closing 68½ ₩ cent., and Toledo a fraction weaker, closing about 24. Michigan Central and Illinois Central were barely steady at the close, though in fair demand at the early Board. Reading fell off to 44½@⅝ ₩ cent., and Hudson and Harlem were both a fraction lower than yesterday, though without much business in either. In Pacific Mail shares there was a recovery, on the first sales in the morning of 1½ ₩ cent., the price this afternoon closing 80@80¼ ₩ cent., cash, and 80½ ₩ cent., buyer 60 days. It is positively affirmed to-day that the Company's steamers will continue to carry the mails after the 1st October—the regular mail under what is called the Johnson-Nicaragua contract, and an independent mail, at rates of postages to be so regulated as to compensate both the Company and the Department, over the Panama route. These mail arrangements, and the recent acquisition of the fine steamers of the Collins line to run on this side, the friends of the concern insist will place the line upon a footing so impregnable as to leave the Vanderbilt opposition to work out its own results without danger to the regular half-yearly dividends on the Mail Stock. Panama Shares were in demand at 117⅛@117⅝ ₩ cent. In State Stocks, Tennessee Sixes were ⅛@¼ ₩ cent. down, Virginias ⅛ higher, and Missouris steady. Most of the Railway mortgages were steady, and the 7 ₩ cent. bonds of the New-York Central in request at 101@101¼ ₩ cent. The general market in the afternoon closed steady on the Bond list, dull for the Western shares, and firm for New-York Central and Pacific Mail.

In the Foreign Exchanges for the mail to-morrow, a considerable amount of credits on London were settled at 110¼ ₩ cent. with the leading Bankers representing BROWNS, BARING, PEABODY and others, who, in turn, are shippers of Bullion. The regular sales of bills to the Import trade were made at 110⅛ for standard drawers and 110⅛ for Southern and Canada Bank-bills. The former finally closed,

On London, 60 days..........................110¼ ₩ cent.
On London, sight..............................110⅝ ₩ cent.
On Paris, 60 days..............................5f. 14⅜ ₩ cent.
On Paris, sight..................................5f. 11⅞ ₩ cent.

The business on France was not so heavy as anticipated, and the steamer for Liverpool will take the heaviest sum of Specie. The two steamers have $2,500,000 engaged, including $200,000 in Mexican dollars. It is stated that the English underwriters raise their charge for insuring Specie leaving this side after the 1st of October, but we attribute the liberal shipments in September rather to the free supply of Gold bars from California, and Mexican dollars from New-Orleans, and to the unexpected ease in our Money Market, which is converting into cash, on cheap terms, the recently created long paper—as well as 60-day acceptances drawn from Cuba—made up on the Fall sales of Dry Goods and other Foreign Merchandise, both through the Auction rooms and by the Import trade direct. The whole operation, after taking about $8,000,000 Gold and Silver, will leave the Banks about as strong at the close as at the beginning of the month, with the prospect in October of the comparative cessation of Specie shipments to Europe because of the competition of Cotton bills from the South.

The Discount Market undergoes very little change this week. First-class paper, outside of Bank, is not freely offered, and all select lists find buyers at 7@7½ ₩ cent., up to and including March dates. Fair names rate from 8½@10 ₩ cent. Short acceptances on No. 1 firms connected with the Havana and Southern trade, go at 6@6½ ₩ cent., 30@60 days. Demand loans are 6 ₩ cent. on Stock collateral, and 6@7 ₩ cent. on pledge of Bills Receivable. Some of the Banking firms, who ship Bullion to-morrow, called in part of their loans, while others were lenders on the same terms. At Bank the business moves on smoothly; some of the Northwestern and interior New-York banks are leaning on their City correspondents to rediscount their collections, which affords in particular banks an improved employment for Money. The Customs to-day are $125,000; other receipts into the Sub-Treasury, $10,000; disbursements, $114,000; balance this afternoon, $5,096,855.

Our well-advised Chicago correspondent writes, under date of yesterday, that the rain storm of Saturday somewhat damaged a small portion of the Illinois Central Road, near that city, on the border of Lake Michigan; and as this track is used by several of the roads leading into a common dépôt, the effect has been to retard the receipts of Wheat. This difficulty will be immediately removed, but at the same time the continued rain storm had interfered with the interior delivery. The seven weeks from the 1st August show the following comparative receipts of Wheat at Chicago:

WHEAT AT CHICAGO SINCE AUG. 1.

First week	40,517	54,745	45,262
Second week	94,850	101,057	148,855
Third week	192,876	208,274	193,407
Fourth week	516,469	404,783	421,745
Fifth week	866,502	335,190	520,566
Sixth week	264,741	356,520	527,122
Seventh week	304,238	230,152	567,223
Total	2,584,302	1,726,821	2,436,303

Our correspondent adds:

This is very little behind the movement of 1857, and in August of that year a good share of old Wheat was coming in, while this year all but a small fraction has been new Wheat.

But in viewing receipts as indications of the crop secured, this important fact should not be lost from sight. In two years a wonderful increase in the milling power of the interior has taken place, so that a large portion of what would otherwise come forward as Wheat, now comes as Flour. Take, therefore, the arrivals of Flour from August 1, in three years:

	1857.	1858.	1859.
First week	3,198	2,596	3,465
Second week	2,819	3,420	7,222
Third week	3,662	7,339	16,908
Fourth week	3,809	11,742	27,170
Fifth week	10,521	14,004	28,194
Sixth week	12,805	18,511	24,103
Seventh week	9,305	12,102	30,518
Total	46,380	70,714	137,507
Reduce to Wheat	231,900	353,570	687,985
Add Wheat	2,584,302	1,726,821	2,436,303
Total	2,816,502	2,080,391	3,126,288

Thus it appears that although in Wheat alone the movement thus far is 150,000 bushels behind 1857, in Flour and Wheat together it is 300,000 bushels ahead. This would indicate a crop secured this year fully equal to that of 1857. It that year, as stated in last week's review, the receipts of Wheat from 1st September to the close of navigation were very heavy, exceeding 7,000,000 bushels in three months, or more than the whole year's receipts of both Flour and Wheat for the harvest of 1858.

The following is a statement of tolls received on the Erie Canal up to this month, compared with those of last year:

Amount received for tolls the first week in September, 1859	$56,972 86
Amount received for tolls the first week in September, 1858	59,388 66
Decrease	$2,415 80
Amount of tolls received the second week in September, 1859	$52,249 44
Amount of tolls received the second week in September, 1858	61,897 62
Decrease	$9,648 28
Amount received for tolls from opening of navigation to and including second week in September, 1859	$1,004,452 93
Amount received for tolls from opening of navigation to and including second week in September, 1858	1,307,116 20
Decrease	$302,663 27

A letter from London by the Arabia remarks:

"Some large gold arrivals from Australia, coupled with those which continue from New-York, have caused an influx to the Bank during the past few days, and the money market is proportionally strengthened, the best bills being negotiated with ease at 2½ ₩ cent., or an eighth below the Bank minimum. The India loan remains in high favor, and has advanced to nearly 3½ ₩ cent. premium.

The accounts of the trade of the country are wonderfully satisfactory, and the figures for the year promise to show a total of exports and imports far beyond any former precedent—a circumstance the more extraordinary and qualifying from the sound and legitimate character of each mercantile operation, and the general character of speculation."
